Connally Not Optimistic About State Of Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We're just living in tough economic times," Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally has told Congress amid new administration reports of a worsening balance of trade and higher farm prices and costs.

"I am not at this point overly optimistic," the former Texas Democratic governor told the Senate-House Economic Committee Friday.

"We haven't seen enough one way or the other, but I haven't seen that many elements of recovery that were substantially strong to allow me to relax," he added.

Connally said President Nixon will begin "expressing himself in a very forceful way" against wage and price hikes the administration considers excessive. But, he indicated, there are no immediate plans to impose wage-price controls.

The Treasury secretary told the committee, which plans to draft its own assessment of the nation's economy, there will have to be a strong gain in the second half of this year to hold down the deficit built into Nixon's so-called full-employment budget for fiscal 1972.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported the U.S. trade surplus declined in January to $49.1 million, the lowest level since June 1969. The surplus in December was $165.9 million.

However, new highs were set in January, the department said. Exports, excluding defense shipments, totaled $3,735 billion to top the old mark set in June 1970 and imports reached $3,686 billion, exceeding the previous record in October 1970.

And the Agriculture Department reported prices paid to farmers for their products rose 5 per cent in February, the second straight month showing a gain, while farm expenses rose three-fourths of 1 per cent, averaging 4 per cent more than a year earlier.

The farm-income boost was led by a sharp upturn in hog and cattle prices, with some increases noted in prices for calves, oranges and sweet corn. Lower prices were reported for eggs, milk and lettuce.

Despite the increases, Agriculture Department officials said, farm product prices still averaged almost 2 per cent less at midmonth than they did a year earlier.

Seale Trial In 4th Month With No Jury Yet Seated

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The search for a jury in the kidnapping-conspiracy trial of Black Panther Chairman Bobby G. Seale and a female codefendant now is in its fourth month and some 1,300 prospective jurors have been rejected.

Eleven—six whites and five blacks—have been seated in the search for 12 jurors and two alternates.

The prosecution and defense agree that the extraordinary time in jury selection is largely attributable to widely held opinions about the defendants and the Black Panther party. Most opinions expressed have been negative.

But the most frequent cause for excusing prospective jurors has been the statement that the person has an opinion about the guilt or innocence of Seale, 34, or Ericka Huggins, 23, a local Panther leader and his codefendant.

Each is charged with two capital offenses—kidnaping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder—plus conspiracy to kidnap and to murder in the slaying of Alex Rackley, a fellow Panther, who was slain nearly two years ago.

Fourteen Panthers were arrested in the case, and the first trial, of Lonnie McCluskey, was held last summer. Defense attorneys objected to severance of McCluskey's case because, they argued, publicity generated by his trial would make jury selection in other cases more difficult.

McCluskey was convicted of conspiracy to murder and acquitted of three more serious charges. He was sentenced to 12 to 15 years in prison and is appealing the case.

The cases of all but four of the others—Seale, Mrs. Huggins and two others fighting extradition from Colorado—have been disposed of without trials.

Apollo 14 Astronauts Released

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 14 astronauts, calling their moon mission "a super success," were released from quarantine Friday and start a round of public appearances here today.

Alan B. Shepard Jr., Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell were released from the isolation of the Lunar Receiving Laboratory 14½ hours earlier than originally planned. They spent their first night at home in 47 days.

The astronauts are scheduled to attend a space agency award ceremony here today. They and their wives will fly to Washington later this weekend for a news conference in the capital on Monday.

The spacemen are also scheduled to dine with President Nixon, spend a weekend at the presidential retreat Camp David.

The astronauts walked into the bright Texas sunlight from the quarantine quarters of the LRL and threw out their arms in delight.

"It's great to be back in the world again," said Mitchell. Roosa told a small crowd which greeted the astronauts: "It was a great mission and it's great to be out of jail."

Also released from quarantine Friday was Nancy Klein, a 23-year-old laboratory technician who accidentally stuck herself with a needle Thursday while working with Apollo 14 moon samples.

Irish Unrest Explodes In Violence

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two policemen were killed early today as gun battles raged in the fire-lit streets of Belfast between government forces and snipers of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Two snipers also were believed dead, and four policemen were wounded. The wounds of one were so serious he was administered last rites.

There had been two weeks of uneasy peace in Northern Ireland's capital before violence erupted Friday night, triggered by the explosions of several gelignite bombs and fires in the city.

A hail of bullets from automatic weapons cut down three unarmed policemen standing with arms linked between jeering Protestant and Catholic crowds in the Ardoyne district of the city. Two constables who ran to their aid also were hit.

Troops of Britain's Royal Highland Fusiliers returned the fire and reported shooting two civilians, one carrying an automatic weapon.

"It is possible that one or both of the gunmen were killed," said Brig. Frank Kitson, the British commander. We saw the men fall to the ground and then be carried away by their comrades."

In the same area, a Catholic stronghold, a police vehicle was ambushed and its driver shot in the leg. One British soldier was shot in the knee and five others were wounded by bomb fragments.

During the night, rioting spread from the Ardoyne to usually peaceful streets around the city market in Cromac Square. About 100 rioters hijacked a bus and went on a window-smashing spree close to the High Court building.

Police made 18 arrests around the square before the mob dispersed.

The deaths of the two policemen brought to 13 the number of fatalities since religious rioting in this British-ruled province began anew a month ago.

Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark's government blames the outbreak on an extremist IRA wing known as the Provisionals, dedicated to expelling the British army from the north and uniting the six northern counties with the Irish Republic.

Official Census Count Announced

Pickaway County's official population in 1970 census was 40,071, up 11.8 per cent from the 1960 figure of 35,855, according to a report from the U.S. Census Bureau.

The official population of the state was 10,652,017, up 9.7 per cent from the 1960 population count which was 9,706,397.

The 1970 census counted 39,233 white persons in Pickaway County, 97.9 per cent of the total; 783 Negroes and 55 persons of other races. In 1960, 97.7 per cent of the population was white.

The census showed 3,534 children under 5 years, 10,823 in ages five through 17; 22,476 people 18 through 64; and 3,238 who were 65 and older. The population 14 years and over included 18,349 married people, 1,716 who were widowed, 728 divorced and 8,175 never married.

Pickaway County's 1970 population was classified at 29.2 per cent urban and 70.8 per cent rural.

There were 11,210 households with 36,504 persons including

1,461 one-person households. In addition, 3,567 persons were living in group quarters.

The 1970 census counted 11,905 housing units in Pickaway County, 7,556 of them occupied by owners, 3,651 occupied by tenants and 695 vacant. These included vacant units for season use. The proportion occupied by owners in 1970 was 63.5 per cent, compared with 55.2 per cent in 1960.

Among year-round dwelling units there were 9,438 single family houses, 1,075 housing units in multi-unit buildings and 1,313 mobile homes or trailers. The percentage of occupied units with more than one person per room was 7.8, compared with 11.5 in 1960. Of all the occupied housing units, 9,905 had piped water, toilet and bath while 1,305 lacked some or all plumbing.

The median value of owner-occupied houses in Pickaway County was $15,200 compared with $9,800 in 1960. The median rent paid by tenants in 1970 was $64 per month, compared with $67 in 1960.

Nationalist China Attacks Hinted U.S. '2-China' Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The China section of President Nixon's "state of the world report" has generated heated disagreement from Taiwan, based on a belief the outlines of a U.S. "two-China" policy are now clearly visible.

The chief objection to the 65,000-word written report was Nixon's assessment that a calmer mood is developing on mainland China and with it an opportunity for the People's Republic of China—the Peking government—to normalize relations with its world neighbors, including the United States.

And in his radio report accompanying the written message, Nixon used these words: "When the government of the People's Republic of China is ready to engage in talks, it will find us receptive to agreements that further the legitimate national interests of China and its neighbors."

"There is a wide gap between Washington and Taiwan on the assessment of the mainland situation," declared Taiwan's ambassador, Chow Shu-kai. "We violently disagree that the mainland has achieved stability and is a unified entity. From our point of view, the situation on the mainland is still obscure and fluid."

"The basic nationalist concern appears to be a conviction the Nixon administration accepts Peking as a permanent reality."

On Taiwan, a high-ranking official who used the pseudonym "political observer" said the Nixon administration should refrain from doing anything detrimental to Nationalist China's basic policy of recovering the mainland.

"This policy will never change no matter how the U.S. foreign policy may change," the observer added.

State Department officials said no formal protest on Nixon's address has been received from the government of President Chiang Kai-shek.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government has decided to pull Britain's troops out of the Persian Gulf area, eliminating even the small token presence it planned to leave behind at the end of 1971.

Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home probably will make the announcement in the House of Commons Monday, authoritative sources reported today.

The policy switch apparently was prompted by resistance from Iran, Saudi Arabia, Iraq and Kuwait to a continued British presence. It marks the end of a campaign pledge by Heath to reverse the plans of former Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government to leave Britain's east-of-Suez bases.

Wilson's administration had announced it would withdraw Britain's 5,500-man force from the gulf by December because of government money problems.

Even before the British withdrawal, Iran has laid claim to three tiny islands at the entrance to the gulf which are under British protection now. The Shah of Iran vowed last week he would occupy the islands by force if necessary.

At one time Britain had hoped to win backing for a token land force on Sharjah at the gulf's entrance and a token air force unit in Bahrain, off the Trucial states in lower Saudi Arabia.

Before the pullout, the Heath government will work hard to inject new life into a collapsing project for a union of nine Arab lands through which British influence could still be exercised in the region, sources said.

Latimer argued that such an issue in fact came in the broad definition of legal insanity, although the defense has not contended that Calley is insane, and all the psychiatric testimony has held him legally sane.

Wind Hits County

Two properties were reported damaged by 45-50 mph winds that passed through the area between 1:30-2 a.m. today.

Damage to Jim's Pay and Save was estimated at $2,500, according to Sheriff's Deputy Bob Hoover. Damage was confined to a new 30 by 63 building addition nearing completion at the business place located on old Route 23, north of the city.

Charles Kuhn of Stout Rd., reported the back porch of his Route 4 home was blown off by the high winds. Damage to the property was estimated at $250.

Black Panther Leaders Split

Newton, Cleaver Have Falling-Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A split in the leadership of the Black Panther party has emerged in a televised exchange between Panther leaders Huey P. Newton and Eldridge Cleaver.

From his self-imposed exile headquarters in Algeria, Cleaver denounced Panther Chief of Staff David Hilliard for the "regrettable" recent purge of party members and for causing the party to fall "apart at the seams."

Newton, cofounder of the party and newly named supreme servant, said he hated to disagree with Cleaver "but, of course, you leave me no other choice." Newton appeared on KGO-TV's Jim Dunbar program Friday, where he talked to Cleaver by phone.

Newton declared that the purge was necessary and that Hilliard was not responsible. "I'm responsible for it. I take that responsibility."

He said those involved in the purge "not only ran out on their comrades, they ran out on Bobby Seale, who's now facing the death chamber in Connecticut." Seale, the other Panther cofounder is on trial on charges of kidnapping resulting in death, aiding murder and conspiracy. He is accused of ordering the execution of a renegade Panther.

The Cleaver-Newton dispute stems from the recent expulsion of 11 Panthers on trial in New York for bomb conspiracy, and the purge of Elmer "Geronimo" Pratt, a Los Angeles Panther kicked out after he was accused of murder.

Wants More Testimony In Rebuttal

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The My Lai case against Lt. William L. Calley Jr. has taken a new turn with a claim by the prosecutor that "I have evidence of other acts of misconduct both prior and after the event."

Capt. Aubrey Daniel, 29-year-old prosecutor, made the statement Friday as a prelude to legal arguments on what testimony will be admitted in the rebuttal phase of the trial. The jury had been dismissed and told to return Wednesday morning.

The trial judge promised to rule today whether press and public can hear the arguments.

Calley is charged with premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese villagers in his company's search and destroy mission at My Lai March 16, 1968.

Daniel said that by presenting evidence relating to the 26-year-old Calley's childhood and continuing through the months after My Lai the defense opened the entire time period to rebuttal testimony.

The senior member of Calley's defense team, attorney George Latimer of Salt Lake City, argued such trial business should be heard in chambers with press and public excluded.

Judge Kennedy said the six-officer jury had been cautioned not to read newspapers or hear broadcast reports. But Latimer argued that such publicity "before the whole United States" would defame Calley.

"I will not consent to the exclusion of the media," Daniel said. "There is no need to take this out of public view."

The rebuttal phase was opened Thursday and Friday by testimony by three Army psychiatrists who gave Calley a mental examination last month.

The head of the board, Col. Arnold W. Johnson, testified as the others had: "In my opinion, I could find no condition that impaired his capacity to premeditate."

He continued: "We took into account combat stress. When a person is in a combat environment there are many pressures on him and the person reacts in various ways, stress is not an impairment but pressure on an individual."

Also in dispute was the issue of insanity.

Kennedy drew agreement that the jury must eventually decide whether the stresses and strains of combat impaired the mental capacity of Calley to the extent that he was unable to premeditate murder.

Latimer argued that such an issue in fact came in the broad definition of legal insanity, although the defense has not contended that Calley is insane, and all the psychiatric testimony has held him legally sane.

Wind Hits County

Two properties were reported damaged by 45-50 mph winds that passed through the area between 1:30-2 a.m. today.

Damage to Jim's Pay and Save was estimated at $2,500, according to Sheriff's Deputy Bob Hoover. Damage was confined to a new 30 by 63 building addition nearing completion at the business place located on old Route 23, north of the city.

Charles Kuhn of Stout Rd., reported the back porch of his Route 4 home was blown off by the high winds. Damage to the property was estimated at $250.

Ferdandel Is Dead

PARIS (AP) — Fernandel, 67, popular French film comedian whose sense of the ridiculous and his sensitivity made him an international favorite, died late Friday after a long illness. Fernandel, whose real name was Fernand Contandin, starred in more than 140 films.

Who would want to hurt a child? Certainly not you. And yet, each year an estimated one-half million to one million children accidentally ingest medicines and commonly-used household products such as furniture polish, cleaning agents, kerosene, paint thinner and pesticides, found in the kitchen, bedroom, bathroom and garage. Someone other than the child involved was responsible for each of these accidents.

When Colonel Edwin Aldrin returned from his historic voyage to the moon, he reasoned that one of his motivations was man's "... insatiable curiosity ... to explore the unknown ...". This inherent trait is manifested in man's earliest beginnings. An infant lying in a crib is examining, probing, "taking stock of" his surroundings. Unlike the adult, who approaches the unknown with caution and discernment, the young child blusters serenely into hair-raising situations.

It is extremely important that this basic fact of a child's development be thoroughly appreciated. A youngster five years of age and under is constantly exploring his environment. This is the way he learns. As he grows, his mobility increases so that relatively more places are accessible to him at age four and five than were available when he was only two. When the youngster is first starting to crawl, he reaches, touches and inevitably tastes what is within his reach. Quite naturally, then, the products most often involved in accidental poisoning — among this age group are those stored on the first floor or in floor-level cabinets such as those beneath kitchen sinks. Pesticides, household cleaning and polishing agents and petroleum products are most often the substances which youngsters of this age ingest.

As the toddler emerges, low tables and chairs are within his reach. Thus, such things as lotions and other externally applied medicines, furniture polish and matches — all left unguarded while the doorbell or telephone is answered — become the objects of the curious child's inspection.

Pills and other internal medicine make up a greater proportion of substances ingested by 3 and 4 year old children than for other age groups. It is at this age that agility and mobility reach their peak, with climbing capabilities recognized and utilized. The high shelves, the medicine cabinets so distant to the crawling and toddling child — are now easily accessible.

The whole point of poison prevention education is to emphasize the proper use and storage of medicines and household products, and to alert the customer that not using the substance as directed or as the manufacturer intended could produce harmful effects. The problem is not one for the young child. Obviously, he cannot read warnings. And, even if such warnings are verbal, a child's memory is short and he can't remember an explanation of a danger or realize its meaning.

Sometimes, we parents are unaware of these dangers. It is difficult for some of us to accept the fact that the pill which can cure a headache, or that a cleaning or polishing substance which makes housework easier can contribute to a serious accident when these products are ingested. One of our responsibilities, as parents, — if we are to protect our children during these formative years — is to rearrange storage patterns of medicines and household products frequently as the child's reach (and along with this, his mobility and ingenuity) increases. What was effective storage when he was unable to do more than crawl becomes an enticing challenge now that he can climb to the kitchen counter or the bathroom sink and reach into the cabinet and chest above.

Try to be aware of potential dangers. Imagine what you might do if you were a child attracted to multi-colored pills and easily-grasped containers. Remember that if he can't see it, he probably will not search for it. And if the storage is locked, the child won't be able to get to it if he should try. Locked areas can be improvised: a bureau drawer, a linen closet outfitted with a sliding bolt-lock, even a fishing tackle box will do.

Here are a few more simple

When the telephone or doorbell rings, take the furniture polish with you. Don't leave it on the coffee table to tempt your child to sample it. Don't describe medicines as candy — call them what they are — medicines.

Read the label on the bottle of medicine each time you use (which means you must have the light on at night) to avoid giving the wrong one or too much of the right one.

Children are tempted to imitate, so don't take medicine in their presence.

Keep all products in their original container — don't transfer to a soft drink bottle or a cup.

Poison proofing a home is not difficult. There may be a slight inconvenience involved as storage patterns must be rearranged. But, isn't your child's life worth it? Remember, that for every child accidentally poisoned, there is an adult responsible. Are you a responsible adult?

Vote For Teamsters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Penitentiary guards voted late Thursday to be represented by Teamsters Union Local 413. Union leaders will hold a bargaining session this afternoon with Warden Harold Cardwell.

The guards broke away last year from the State Employees Council 21 and were not represented during last month's walkout at the penitentiary.

Channel Improvement Under Study

COLUMBUS — A six-man team has been appointed by Robert E. Quilliam, state conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service (SCS) Columbus, to study all planned stream channel improvements in approved watershed projects not yet installed.

The team, consisting of a soil conservationist, a wildlife biologist, an economist, two engineers and a geologist will go into action on March 1. Agronomists, woodland specialists and other specialists in biology will also be available to the team. They will review existing fish and wildlife reports from both state and federal agencies and make a thorough study of current practices for planning channel improvement.

The goal of the study and resulting recommendations is to insure that only those future channel projects whose impact on the environment as a whole is a beneficial one are installed.

"The findings and recommendations of the SCS study team will be reviewed with other interested state and federal agencies for their comments and modifications before conclusions are reached," said Quilliam.

Watershed projects are planned and carried out by responsible local organizations who are conscientiously trying to solve their water management problems and such projects are one means of increasing economic opportunity, developing recreation areas and storing needed water in rural America, he said.

Many channels are filled with sediment from past erosion and most projects include some channel improvement; however, each stream channel is different and must be judged on its own merits. We hope to accomplish this with the study, said Quilliam.

Similar studies will be conducted in other states, he said, as a part of SCS policy to administer programs for which the agency has assigned responsibility in complete accord with the National Environmental Policy Act.

Check For Cattle Lice Before Large Losses Occur

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Lice can take a serious toll in cattle herds. Infestations are seldom detected early and much loss results before the need for treatment is recognized, warns William F. Lyon, extension entomologist at Ohio State University.

Blood loss caused by "sucking lice" is of most importance. The volume of red blood cells can be reduced to 1/4 the normal volume in infested animals, causing them to become weak, unthrifty, stunted and slow gainers.

The second type of loss results from "biting lice" irritation. Cattle rub against fence posts, hay racks, barn doors and fences in an effort to gain relief. Large areas of skin, bruised and partly denuded of hair, frequently are seen on these animals.

In every herd there are usually one or two animals which carry the heaviest lice infestations. They are known as "carriers" and frequently infect other animals in the herd. These animals are difficult to keep louse-free, usually slow in gaining and probably should be "culled out" of the herd as a good management practice. These infested animals often become anemic, weak and susceptible to diseases in spite of a good feeding program.

LICE can be found in the hair around the neck, brisket, back, inner surface of the thighs, over the withers, at the tail head, and near the nose, eyes and ears. Biting lice are reddish-brown and feed on the skin, whereas the sucking lice are slate-gray to blue and feed on blood.

When lice are discovered, all animals must be treated. A second treatment should be made after three to four weeks to kill new lice hatched from eggs. During the initial treatment, adult and immature lice are killed but lice eggs in the hair coat are usually not all destroyed.

Insecticides which are effective in controlling cattle lice are crotoxyphos (Ciodrin), coumaphos (Co-Ral), rotenone, methoxychlor, ronnel (Korlan), toxaphene, and crufomate (Ruelene), and malathion, says Lyon. Some of these can be used on beef, but not on dairy animals due to possible residues which may accumulate in the milk. Read and follow the label explicitly.

For dairy cattle, use dusts of 3 per cent crotoxyphos (Ciodrin), or 1 per cent rotenone, in cold weather. Repeat dust applications in 2-4 weeks, if needed. Don't treat calves under six months of age with 3 per cent crotoxyphos (Ciodrin) dust.

Backrubbers containing 1 per cent coumaphos (Co-Ral) may be used for louse control. Mix four quarts Co-Ral 11.6 per cent in 13 gallons of No. 2 fuel oil, or No. 2 diesel fuel oil. Use about one gallon of prepared solution per 20 foot of cable. Place the backrubber in a place where animals travel regularly.

Sprays are usually more effective than dusts, or backrubbers. Mix two quarts of crotoxyphos (Ciodrin) EC (1.1 lbs. per gallon) in six gallons of water. Apply one to two pints of prepared solution per animal using a power or hand sprayer. Use at least two spray applications about three weeks apart to prevent recurrence of lice.

FOR beef cattle, wider variety of insecticides and methods of application can be used since contamination of milk is not a problem. However, you must strictly adhere to waiting periods from last application to slaughter to prevent meat contamination with residues.

A dust of 3 per cent crotoxyphos (Ciodrin) may be used on beef animals as well as on dairy animals for louse control. Sprinkle dust on poll, back or sides of animal; or place dust in a dust bag.

Backrubbers containing 1 per cent crotoxyphos (Ciodrin), 1 per cent coumaphos (Co-Ral), 5 per cent methoxychlor, 1 per cent ronnel (Korlan), or 5 per cent toxaphene are recommended. There is a waiting period of 14 days for ronnel (Korlan) and 28 days for toxaphene. Do not use on animals less than 3 months old.

Spray treatments of toxaphene, coumaphos (Co-Ral), malathion, ronnel (Korlan), or methoxychlor all give good lice control when animals are sprayed thoroughly according to label recommendations. Do not spray animals less than 1 month old with malathion, or animals less than 3 months old with toxaphene or coumaphos (Co-Ral). Do not use a spray of toxaphene within 28 days, or ronnel (Korlan) within 56 days of slaughter.

Crufomate (Ruelene) 8 per cent, or 25 per cent pour-on will give lice control. There is a 28-day waiting period from last application to slaughter. Pour

It's never too early to start planning the vegetable garden. A little advance planning now can save important minutes at planting time.

Many gardeners are already ordering seed and planning the layout of this year's garden. James D. Utzinger, Extension Horticulturist at The Ohio State University, suggests you do a pencil sketch, drawing in and labeling rows to be planted to various vegetables.

You can determine by past experiences of family needs, land space and gardening time (man hours available) how many feet of vegetable rows to plant. Most of us plant more than we actually need, even to giving some to neighbors and freezing a batch. But it's fun and good pastime on weekends.

It's also good to check out the spray equipment, list pesticides needed and get the power tiller in condition. Spring will be here before we know it.

Some of you may be interested in exhibiting vegetables at the county or state fair. If so, there's a good handbook called "Plan and Plant for Blue Ribbons" — SB-18, that gives you the lowdown on entries and when to plant vegetables so they will be at their peak around August 15 — county fair time. Too, there are several pages on desirable specimens for exhibition.

Get a copy of this bulletin at your local County Extension Office or write the Office of Information, The Ohio State University, 2120 Fyffe Road, Columbus, Ohio, 43210. The bulletin is for sale only and costs 50 cents.

If you are wondering which vegetable varieties to plant this year, get a copy of Bulletin 287 at your county agent's office. Single copies are free, and it is packed with valuable information on vegetable gardening. It has a sample "family vegetable garden" plan that may just fit your needs. Otherwise, you can use it as a guide and draw up your own.

The publication also gives the recommended varieties for Ohio. And, there are tables showing when to plant seed, how deep, number per 100-foot row, days to maturity, row distances and other important information. You'll also be interested in the listing of vegetables showing their season availability. This may help you plant your garden and plan your vacation so you will be home when the vegetables are ready for harvest.

Remember, fresh vegetables from the garden have the best taste, and they cut down on the grocery bill, too.

1971 Bulletins Are At Farm Extension Office

The Pickaway County Extension Office has received its supply of 1971 bulletins dealing primarily with insect and disease control. These bulletins are available upon request at the Extension Office.

The most popular of these bulletins to farmers is bulletin 495 — "Insecticides to Control Insects Affecting Field Corn, Small Grain and Sorghums."

"The Control of Household Insects," bulletin 512, is the popular one for home owners.

Other new bulletins are: "Diseases and Insect Control of Backyard Fruits," "Insect and Mite Control of OTRamentals" and "Control of Vegetable Insects and Diseases."

Apply one to two pints of prepared solution per animal using a power or hand sprayer. Use at least two spray applications about three weeks apart to prevent recurrence of lice.

FOR beef cattle, wider variety of insecticides and methods of application can be used since contamination of milk is not a problem. However, you must strictly adhere to waiting periods from last application to slaughter to prevent meat contamination with residues.

A dust of 3 per cent crotoxyphos (Clodrin) may be used on beef animals as well as on dairy animals for louse control. Sprinkle dust on poll, back or sides of animal; or place dust in a dust bag.

Backrubbers containing 1 per cent crotoxyphos (Clodrin), 1 per cent coumaphos (Co-Ral), 5 per cent methoxychlor, 1 per cent ronnel (Korlan), or 5 per cent toxaphene are recommended. There is a waiting period of 14 days for ronnel (Korlan) and 28 days for toxaphene. Do not use on animals less than 3 months old.

Spray treatments of toxaphene, coumaphos (Co-Ral), malathion, ronnel (Korlan), or methoxychlor all give good lice control when animals are sprayed thoroughly according to label recommendations. Do not spray animals less than 1 month old with malathion, or animals less than 3 months old with toxaphene or coumaphos (Co-Ral). Do not use a spray of toxaphene within 28 days, or ronnel (Korlan) within 56 days of slaughter.

Crufomate (Ruelene) 8 per cent, or 25 per cent pour-on will give lice control. There is a 28-day waiting period from last application to slaughter. Pour this chemical evenly along the animal backbone with a marked dipper, according to label directions and precautions. Be sure to follow all label instructions, precautions and restrictions for the use of any recommended insecticide whether on dairy or beef animals.

4-H On The Go

By FRED SANDROCK
County Extension Agent, 4-H
The Duval Busy Fingers 4-H club will organize March 1, 4 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Edward Kuhlwein. Any girl between the age of 10-19 is welcome to attend this meeting. For more information call the Extension Office, 474-7534.

The Stylish Stitches 4-H club will hold their next meeting on March 2, at Walnut School, from 2:30-4 p.m. All members are urged to attend.

Today's youth scene isn't all drug abuse, teenage runaways and school dropouts. There are millions of young people who are working for a better America by helping other less fortunate than themselves.

Many of these concerned young people are enrolled in the 4-H health program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. And through their clubs find they can help promote good health in their communities and have a good time doing it.

A 4-H club in Tulare County, California, includes a monthly program for the mentally retarded children enrolled in the club.

"We take special pride in making happy 4-Hers of these children," Mr. Joe Martin, local 4-H club leader, says.

In Monroe County, Mississippi, a 4-H club of 18 girls voted to use their treasury money to buy and wrap packages for the Red Cross at Christmas. They sold tickets for a drive to raise money for exceptional children and had two bake sales with profits going for clothes and food for a cancer victim's family. But this wasn't all. They bought school lunches for a month for five children, raised $140 for an invalid recovering from brain surgery and did a house-to-house canvass for the March of Dimes.

Nine members in a club in Talbot County, Maryland, conducted a bake sale to raise money for the mentally retarded.

The program of a 4-H club in San Juan County, New Mexico, took a three-pronged attack. They collected for the Cancer Society and worked to alert the community on problems of dental health. The members also erected posters and exhibits to promote the principles of good nutrition.

A 4-H club in Missouri took as its project a UNICEF program and members unloaded medical supplies and food at the Civil Defense shelter.

Other groups throughout the country are working to alert their communities to the need for regular eye and dental checkups, they have banded together to aid the Red Cross in the blood bank program, have made door-to-door canvasses for the March of Dimes, and other important drives.

There are over 500,000 young people between the ages of 9 and 19 enrolled in the 4-H health program. They are aware that one of the greatest problems facing young people today is drug abuse, but they also feel that a positive educational approach to helping others who are afflicted can be a source of real satisfaction.

Incentives and recognition are provided by Eli Lilly and Company, sponsor of the 4-H health program for 16 years. Through the National 4-H Service Committee, the company offers certificates to clubs and individual awards. These include four medals of honor for county winners, a trip to the 50th National 4-H Congress to a winner from each state and seven national scholarships of $700 each.

For more information about the 4-H health program and specific activities in the local area, contact the County Extension Office.

Buttons and Bowls, Jr.

The first meeting of the club was held Feb. 22, at Washington Twp. School. Requirements for the year were discussed and enrollment sheets handed out. The next meeting will be March 8, 7:30 p.m., at Washington Twp. School. Any girls wishing to join the club should be present at this meeting.

Ferguson Closing 35 Audit Offices

CINCINNATI (AP) — State Auditor Joseph Ferguson has shut down one of 35 regional auditing offices that he said were used for political intentions by Republicans including his predecessor, Roger Cloud.

"The only reason the offices were opened by the Republicans in the first place was for campaign purposes," Ferguson, a Democrat, said Friday. "Well, the auditor's office won't be used this way under me."

Ferguson said that all the other offices in a total of 11 districts around the state will be closed down. From now on, all state examiners will work under the immediate direction of the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices in Columbus.

Ferguson said that "we've found out that some of the examiners—not all of them—are not always reporting for work, and not always working all day."

He said that Cloud made use of the offices in his unsuccessful gubernatorial campaign against John J. Gilligan.

In Columbus, Rex Haacker, director of the inspection bureau under Cloud, called the regional offices "an efficient operation." He said that Cloud set them up to "promote efficiency, to bring all audits to a current status, and to have someone locally who officials could rely on for advice about their problems."

Haacker said that the 11 districts were established many years ago.

MARIJUANA—David Harris, husband of folk singer Joan Baez, has been caught with marijuana in California's La Tuna Correctional Institution, says Warden Bill Zachem. Harris, serving time for refusing induction, is shown in 1968 before being sentenced.

Environment Panel States 1st Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Citizens Task Force on Environmental Protection will hold its first meeting next Wednesday afternoon. Chairman John H. Glenn announced.

Gov. John J. Gilligan will speak to the members, and the committee's Executive Advisory Group will make initial presentations on the health, ecological, economic and institutional aspects of environmental protection.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Walter (honeymooner) Wright, Susan (his granddaughter) Wright, Earl Metzger, Ella Southworth, Helen Adams, Ernestine Lewis, Joan Dawson, Debbie Adams, March 1; Tom Musselman, Carl Gearheart, Harry Stonerock, Ted Hamric, Rick Brayshaw (more about this), March 2; Martha Ewing, March 3; Brenda Lynn Myers, Janie Hamman, Nel Ater, Jill Kahler, Mark Henson, March 4; Shorty Christopher, Steve Johnson, Pauline Schooley, Tom Conrad, March 5; Teenie Wallace, Dawn Brigner, Gary Underwood, Eddie Hunsicker, Carl Swackhammer, March 6; Tim Lett, March 7; Melissa Elliott, Diana Bush Eyck, March 8.

Now, I have a very special favor to ask of all you readers. Please send a birthday card to P.V. 2 Richard Brayshaw, A Company 9th Battalion, 2nd Training Brigade, 1st Platoon, Fort Jackson, South Carolina, 29207. This must be done immediately since he will celebrate his day Tuesday. Rick will graduate from basic training on Thursday, March 4. His parents Jack and Patti and brother Barry plan to drive down for a week-end visit next week.

That little sweetheart, Michele Dean, celebrated her second birthday on two different occasions. First, grandpa and grandma Earl and Maxine Lanman hosted Michele and her parents, Jim and Karen Dean, to dinner at the L&K on Saturday evening. Then on Sunday, the Deans threw wide the welcome door for grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Dean, Mrs. Mabel MacCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dean and their Steve and Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean with Lonnie and Kathy, and Miss Maggie MacCracken all of Circleville. This was a triple celebration since grandmother Dean and great-aunt Mabel MacCracken also had very recent birthdays.

Joe and Janie Cottrill were the big spenders the other night and entertained Mrs. Rena Adams (Janie's mother) of Frankfort, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Azbell, Paula, Melissa, and Randy, Scott, Tina, Vicki, and Cheryl Cottrill with dinner at the Bob Evans in Chillicothe. The remainder of the evening was spent informally (not doing much of anything, that means). Another Cottrill daughter, Mrs. Glenna Wisecup and her mate Darrell and offspring Drew were unable to accept papa's invite.

Sunday guests of handsome Pete Cochenour and his soulmate Pearl were Bill and Valie Cochenour Long and their heirs, Becky, Jackie, Brett, and Jeff of Darrtown, Mrs. Mae Cochenour and Mrs. Pearl Kimberley of Chillicothe and dear Grandma B (Mrs. Agnes Brayshaw).

For all the folks who questioned why the new 20 MPH school lights were installed so high on the poles, I have the answer. Due to the many semi trucks that pass through our village and the width and height of such trucks it was felt advisable to place the lights in such a manner so the trucks would not be apt to damage them.

Oops! had another birthday dinner to report. It was quite a family affair that honored Kate Sollars what with Mr. and Mrs. Verland Riley and four sons over from Roundtown, Mrs. Earl Jones and Roger, Mrs. Bessie Weese from Chillicothe, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tarbill, Ann and Andy (that's Kate's daughter Sandy) of Morgantown, West Virginia, daughters Georgia London and second quarter O.S.U. student Etia Jo Sollars from Columbus. Unfortunately, after such a happy day, Kate has been quite ill.

Others around town who have been hit by the bug are Marc Easterday, Cindy Hamman, Brad Thompson, Brad Beatty, Debbie Cook and Linda Eisnaugle.

With the advent of March always comes the banquet bit and this one is no exception. March 9 at 6:30 p.m. the Mustangs will be honored with a covered dish affair. Table service is also a must. Rolls and beverage will be served by the Boosters. Thursday, March 11, at Westfall, the F.F.A. banquet and at Jackson Junior High the basketball banquet. This, too, is a covered dish, table service, 6:30 p.m. affair. Rolls and beverage by P.T.A. Mark these dates and time on your calendar.

While you are marking notes, here are a few more. Friday, March 5, the students of the Westfall Drama Club will present three one-act plays with curtain time at 7:30 p.m. The plays are, "The Waiting Room"; "Not My Cup of Tea"; and "Perils of Priscilla." The adviser is Miss Rachael Ford, however, al casting, directing, lights, costumes, staging, make-up, etc., has been done by Drama Club members. Children under six will be admitted free of charge and students will only pay fifty cents with adults springing for a buck.

Have you purchased your ticket yet for the Gospel Sing to be held at Westfall High School on Sunday, March 7? The advance sale will close this Friday, March 5 so the time is limited. Contact any Booster director, Charles Shannon and Richard Adams are two of them or any member of the Monroe Mens Club or little old me for advance tickets.

Easter is just around the corner and that is a great time for a Bake Sale, so our local Sorosis group plans to have one on Saturday, April 10. More details will be forthcoming at a later date but we want to establish the fact that there will be one. This has almost become an annual affair.

I recently had a phone conversation with Ruth Shippe of Macon, Georgia and her mother, Mrs. Charles Smiley (who is my near neighbor) is not feeling too well. Mrs. Smiley spends the winter months with her daughter. Just today I had a card from Mrs. Smiley and she wrote that she expects to be home about the first of March and she, too, said she hasn't been up to par. It will be good to have her back home. She will celebrate a birthday the last of March and if memory serves me right, it will be her ninety-seventh!

Several family members came from afar to attend the funeral services for Marcus Ebenhack and to offer comfort and solace to his widow, Elizabeth Ebenhack. Son, Mr. L. V. Ebenhack and his family of Cleveland, son Marcus, Jr., his wife and their children, Marcus III, Mrs. Mary Ward and her son Bob of Tulsa, Oklahoma, service grandsons, Frank Ebenhack, who was reared by the senior Ebenhacks, and is stationed now at Camp Pendleton, Calif., Terry Garrison from Vandenberg Air Base, also in California.

FCC Suspends Alert Procedure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has suspended temporarily the automatic takeover of news service broadcast wires for emergency announcement tests.

The FCC said the announcements, designed to alert the nation as fast as possible when an emergency takes place, will be routed through the broadcast desks of The Associated Press and United Press International at least until March 27. That date was set for final recommendations on operation of the Emergency Broadcast System.

The action stems from last weekend's erroneous announcement of an emergency, directing many radio and television stations to go off the air and telling others to stand by for instructions from either President Nixon or the Office of Civil Defense.

Shelby County Fire Fatal To Tiny Boy

SIDNEY, Ohio (AP)— Thomas Pepoit, 11 months, died Friday when a fire destroyed his family's mobile home near Russia in western Shelby County.

The fire was blamed on defective wiring. The infant had been left alone while the mother, Mary, went to a nearby school to pick up another child.

State House Guards Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan may seek funds from the State Emergency Board to hire additional highway patrolmen for guard duty at the Statehouse and the Governor's Mansion on a 24-hour basis.

Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady said today he has recommended 20 additional patrolmen for the project.

O'Grady said the concern is for the governor and the safety of other state officials, legislators, and persons visiting the Capitol. Present statehouse guards, he said, are trained primarily as guides and parking lot attendants.

Col. Robert M. Chiraamonte, patrol superintendent, asked for more guards during Gov. James A. Rhodes' administration. He said officers have been called to the Statehouse frequently to handle demonstrations and bomb threats.

The Emergency Board rejected the previous request.

Walter (honeymooner) Wright, Susan (his granddaughter) Wright, Earl Metzger, Ella Southworth, Helen Adams, Ernestine Lewis, Joan Dawson, Debbie Adams, March 1; Tom Musselman, Carl Gearheart, Harry Stonerock, Ted Hamric, Rick Brayshaw (more about this), March 2; Martha Ewing, March 3; Brenda Lynn Myers, Janie Hamman, Nel Ater, Jill Kahler, Mark Henson, March 4; Shorty Christopher, Steve Johnson, Pauline Schooley, Tom Conrad, March 5; Teenie Wallace, Dawn Brigner, Gary Underwood, Eddie Hunsicker, Carl Swackhammer, March 6; Tim Lett, March 7; Melissa Elliott, Diana Bush Eycke, March 8.

Now, I have a very special favor to ask of all you readers. Please send a birthday card to PV 2 Richard Brayshaw, A Company 9th Battalion, 2nd Training Brigade, 1st Platoon, Fort Jackson, South Carolina, 29207. This must be done immediately since he will celebrate his day Tuesday. Rick will graduate from basic training on Thursday, March 4. His parents Jack and Patti and brother Barry plan to drive down for a week-end visit next week.

That little sweetheart, Michele Dean, celebrated her second birthday on two different occasions. First, grandpa and grandma Earl and Maxine Lanman hosted Michele and her parents, Jim and Karen Dean, to dinner at the L&K on Saturday evening. Then on Sunday, the Deans threw wide the welcome door for grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Dean, Mrs. Mabel MacCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dean and their Steve and Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean with Lonnie and Kathy, and Miss Maggie MacCracken all of Circleville. This was a triple celebration since grandmother Dean and great-aunt Mabel MacCracken also had very recent birthdays.

Joe and Janie Cottrill were the big spenders the other night and entertained Mrs. Rena Adams (Janie's mother) of Frankfort, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Azbell, Paula, Melissa, and Randy, Scott, Tina, Vicki, and Cheryl Cottrill with dinner at the Bob Evans in Chillicothe. The remainder of the evening was spent informally (not doing much of anything, that means). Another Cottrill daughter, Mrs. Glenna Wiscup and her mate Darrell and offspring Drew were unable to accept papa's invite.

Sunday guests of handsome Pete Cochenour and his soulmate Pearl were Bil and Valie Cochenour Long and their heirs, Becky, Jackie, Brett, and Jeff of Darrtown. Mrs. Mae Cochenour and Mrs. Pearl Kimberley of Chillicothe and dear Grandma B (Mrs. Agnes Brayshaw).

For all the folks who questioned why the new 20 MPH school lights were installed so high on the poles, I have the answer. Due to the many semi-trucks that pass through our village and the width and height of such trucks it was felt advisable to place the lights in such a manner so the trucks would not be apt to damage them.

Oops! had another birthday dinner to report. It was quite a family affair that honored Kate Sollars what with Mr. and Mrs. Verland Riley and four sons over from Roundtown, Mrs. Earl Jones and Roger, Mrs. Bessie Weese from Chillicothe, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tarbill, Ann and Andy (that's Kate's daughter Sandy) of Morgantown, West Virginia, daughters Georgia London and second quarter O.S.U. student Ettia Jo Sollars from Columbus. Unfortunately, after such a happy day, Kate has been quite ill.

Others around town who have been hit by the bug are Marc Easterday, Cindy Hamman, Brad Thompson, Brad Beatty, Debbie Cook and Linda Eisnagle.

With the advent of March always comes the banquet bit and this one is no exception. March 9 at 6:30 p.m. the Mustangs will be honored with a covered dish affair. Table service is also a must. Rolls and beverage will be served by the Boosters, Thursday, March 11, at Westfall, the F.F.A. banquet and at Jackson Junior High the basketball banquet. This, too, is a covered dish. Table service, 6:30 p.m. affair. Rolls and beverage by P.T.A. Mark these dates and time on your calendar.

While you are marking notes, here are a few more. Friday, March 5, the students of the Westfall Drama Club will present three one-act plays with curtain time at 7:30 p.m. The plays are, "The Waiting Room"; "Not My Cup of Tea"; and "Perils of Priscilla." The adviser is Miss Rachael Ford, however, all casting, directing, lights, costumes, staging, make-up, etc., has been done by Drama Club members. Children under six will be admitted free of charge and students will only pay fifty cents with adults springing for a buck.

Have you purchased your ticket yet for the Gospel Sing to be held at Westfall High School on Sunday, March 7? The advance sale will close this Friday, March 5 so the time is limited. Contact any Booster director, Charles Shannon and Richard Adams are two of them or any member of the Monroe Mens Club or little old me for advance tickets.

Easter is just around the corner and that is a great time for a Bake Sale, so our local Sorosis group plans to have one on Saturday, April, 10. More details will be forthcoming at a later date but we want to establish the fact that there will be one. This has almost become an annual affair.

I recently had a phone conversation with Ruth Shipe of Macon, Georgia and her mother, Mrs. Charles Smiley (who is my near neighbor) is not feeling too well. Mrs. Smiley spends the winter months with her daughter. Just today I had a card from Mrs. Smiley and she wrote that she expects to be home about the first of March and she, too, said she hasn't been up to par. It will be good to have her back home. She will celebrate a birthday the last of March and if memory serves me right, it will be her ninety-seventh!

Mary Alice Greenwood continues to be a patient at Berger Hospital and it is encouraging to hear that she is showing improvement although still a very sick gal. Chins up, M.A.I. We are all rooting in your corner.

Due to illness this past week in our household we did not conduct the Heart Fund but scheduled it for this coming Sunday for Williamsport and Deercreek Township. Volunteers will have proper identification and the drive will begin at 1:30 p.m. Contribution envelopes were distributed at Darby, Monroe and Jackson schools for folks in those areas who wish to donate to this extremely important fund. We have one couple who saves pennies through the year and gives them to the Heart Fund. This is such a painless way and yet makes for a very handsome donation. Our Heart Fund teenagers always look forward to counting how many we receive each year. Bless their hearts, they each take such an interest in how much we can collect and hope that each year tops the previous year and through the generosity of all you wonderful people we always have gone over — we hope for more of the same this year. Will we? Only you can answer.

Twister Toll 102

Across Gulf States

INVERNESS, Miss. (AP) — The death toll has risen to 102 in the aftermath of tornadoes which hit the Mississippi Delta areas of Louisiana and Mississippi late Sunday, officials reported Thursday.

Federal officials are operating one-stop assistance offices in an attempt to eliminate red tape and rush aid to the hundreds left homeless by the twisters.

FCC Suspends Alert Procedure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has suspended temporarily the automatic takeover of news service broadcast wires for emergency announcement tests.

The FCC said the announcements, designed to alert the nation as fast as possible when an emergency takes place, will be routed through the broadcast desks of The Associated Press and United Press International at least until March 27. That date was set for final recommendations on operation of the Emergency Broadcast System.

The action stems from last weekend's erroneous announcement of an emergency, directing many radio and television stations to go off the air and telling others to stand by for instructions from either President Nixon or the Office of Civil Defense.

State House Guards Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan may seek funds from the State Emergency Board to hire additional highway patrolmen for guard duty at the Statehouse and the Governor's Mansion on a 24-hour basis.

Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady said today he has recommended 20 additional patrolmen for the project.

O'Grady said the concern is for the governor and the safety of other state officials, legislators, and persons visiting the Capitol. Present statehouse guards, he said, are trained primarily as guides and parking lot attendants.

Col. Robert M. Chiraamonte, patrol superintendent, asked for more guards during Gov. James A. Rhodes' administration. He said officers have been called to the Statehouse frequently to handle demonstrations and bomb threats.

The Emergency Board rejected the previous request.

Grandiose Program

President Nixon, in an 18-page message to Congress, said it is time for all Americans to dedicate themselves to a decade of "restoring the environment and reclaiming the earth."

This is a noble goal, and if the government and the people were to apply themselves as they did to develop the nation's superb space program, the earth would be a better place.

His program calls for several inducements to industry, the most important of which is the proposal to levy a fee against those who use fuels that send sulphur dioxides into the air. Sulphur oxide is among the most serious pollutants in the atmosphere today. It damages $8 billion worth of property every year.

Nixon also asked for a tax on lead additives in gasoline and added that the government would set an example this year by procuring more than half of its paper supplies from stocks of recycled paper.

Many of the programs in the President's message had been reported earlier or described in his State of the Union and budget messages. Among them were proposals to restrict the use of chemicals and metals the Environmental Protection Administration determines to be hazards to the environment, and the allocation of federal money to be matched locally to upgrade waste treatment facilities.

New proposals include empowering EPA to set standards for noise control, regulation of the environmental consequences of strip mining, control of ocean dumping, new specifications for control of pesticides, and the development of new land-use plans.

This is an ambitious program, but most congressmen would be surprised if more than a smattering of it is enacted into law.

Paperwork Prospers

The age of the computer, it was argued some years ago, finally would free man of the tedium which frequently accompanied his labors. He would be able to create, to expand his horizons unencumbered by routines which could just as easily be handled by machines.

The computer has now progressed to its fourth generation, but it has not lived up to its potential in at least one important respect — paperwork. Many reasons and excuses are offered, but paperwork is still growing and continues to threaten to inundate more productive pursuits.

The leading paperwork factory, of course, is the federal government. Fantastic tons of reports, questionnaires, studies and forms flow into Washington, much of it from state and local governments but an increasing volume from individuals, corporations and other private sources.

A study by ex-Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio indicates the cost of preparing and processing federal paperwork has increased from $4 to $8 billion in the last 15 years.

As the study also showed, much of the information gathered by the paperwork specialists was not pertinent to the subject at hand. It consisted of peripheral information which someone apparently thought might be nice to gather, even if it reposed forever after in a basement storage room.

Periodically, officials in Washington rise to complaints from the public and say they are going to do something about the paperwork, but the problem only gets worse. Federal officials help it along, of course, by defending information expansions such as has occurred with the official census report.

It is one of Parkinson's laws that bureaucracy expands to fill the time and resources available to it, and there is no better filler than mountains of paperwork, as tens of thousands of public servants who have mastered the art are fully aware.

Big Deal

The price of orange juice will go up a penny a can because of the annual freeze in Florida's orange groves. Big deal. There are some citizens still around who remember when an increase of a penny a loaf in the price of bread made front page headlines. "Bread to go from 7 to 8 cents a loaf," or a reasonable facsimile thereof is what the headline said.

A penny a can more for orange juice? Forget it.

A STERN judge eyed a prisoner before him and asked, "Have you ever been sentenced before to twenty years in jail?" The prisoner, bursting into obviously phony tears, vowed, "NEVER, Your Honor." "Well, don't cry," continued the unfeeling judge. "You're going to be now!"

Absolutely essential to a surgeon performing a delicate operation is a trained scrub nurse—at his right elbow to hand him the instruments he needs without hesitation. In his new book, "The Making of a Surgeon," Dr. William Nolen tells of one top-drawer surgeon who inadvertently said "Scissors" to a nurse when he wanted a clamp. He held out his hand and she slapped the scissors into it. He took one look at what he was holding and threw it on the floor. "Damn it, nurse," he shouted. "Don't give me what I ask for; give me what I NEED!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Anyone who has ever had an attack of kidney stones will joyously accept this news flash.

At the Medical College of Virginia, Dr. M. J. Vernon Smith has been using a dye to dissolve kidney stones. His results are astonishing, and the animal experimentation is most encouraging.

The dye, methylene blue, has been used for years for a variety of medical reasons.

The methylene blue is taken by mouth three times a day and, apparently, is effective in dissolving existing calcium stones and in preventing others from forming.

Promising results in humans have been reported in hospitals and medical centers in various parts of the country. In many instances, the use of the dye has reduced the need for surgery.

The dye is now being studied for safety factors before being released for general use.

An ingenious idea occurred to Dr. Howard F. Raskin, at the Maryland School of Medicine.

Instead of the flat, tasteless, chalky barium given to patients to study the stomach and intestines, he gives them hamburgers.

Tastefully prepared with barium, the hamburgers are given to patients to more effectively learn how the stomach functions and empties itself. The barium makes it possible to follow, by X-ray, the course of solid food in the stomach and intestines.

This method of X-ray examination has proved so palatable that it is already being tried in a number of hospitals.

Of course, the inevitable has happened. One patient complained that the hamburger was too rare.

The American Heart Association stresses the following rules to reduce the danger of a heart attack:

1. Maintain a normal body weight. 2. eat foods low in animal fats and cholesterol. 3. stop smoking cigarettes. 4. If you have high blood pressure, you should be under the constant supervision of your doctor. Effective drugs are available. 5. Some form of exercise in moderation is extremely beneficial.

Hope lies in this advice. Follow it.

All rough contact sports deserve good, protective headgear.

No Change Gilligan Says In Viet Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan, who thinks America should get out of Vietnam, said his position wasn't changed at a secret briefing on defense and foreign policy at the State Department Thursday.

He said he heard "nothing very new or startling or shocking" in the briefings by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

"I'm no more persuaded than when I went in," the Ohio Democrat added.

Administration sources agreed that the closed-door session dealt with little not already known to newspaper readers.

Receiving the briefing were 22 state chief executives attending the National Governors Conference, which ended Thursday.

Gilligan returned to Columbus Thursday evening. Administration sources said subjects discussed at the briefing included U.S.-Soviet relations, the U.S. Soviet Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT), the Soviet attitude toward Red China and Moscow-Peking relations, the U.S. posture toward Red China, Nigeria, the Mideast, the Indochina war and U.S. and Asian military strength in the Pacific area.

Governors questions, they said, dealt with U.S. relations in this hemisphere, including Canada, the Soviet attitude toward the Indochina conflict, U.S. foreign aid since World War II, Cuba, prisoners of war and the attitude of youth in the United States.

Peace Movement

By JEFFERY HART

Having no national constituency to speak of at the moment, the Peace Movement returned to Square One last week — to the campus, naturally — and began to build up for the campaign sure to come this spring. Thus again, after a period of welcome calm, the left is moving once more to convert the academy into an instrument of its political will and to impair it as an institution of learning.

Last Monday, Gene McCarthy, formerly of coast to coast, addressed an overflow audience in Harvard's Sanders Theater. Several speakers stressed the need to avoid violence and disruption, to the general approval of the audience, but when McCarthy came on, and in his genteel way beked to the revolution, he too was cheered to the rafters. "We are now," he declared, "in the position the colonists were when they protested taxation without representation. It was not taxation they protested but lack of representation, and I say government without representation, if it is not tyranny, it may soon become such."

Woolly though this analysis is, its meaning is clear enough. McCarthy was telling his Harvard audience that the U.S. Government may "soon" become a "tyranny" — by next spring, say, when the warm weather will invite student demonstrations — and he was legitimatizing in advance a modern equivalent of the colonists' Boston Tea Party.

Down at Yale, in another teach-in, the rhetoric was even more inflammatory. A couple of days before, speaking at an Alumni Day luncheon, President Kingman Brewster had denounced the Laotian operation as a moral outrage — I am waiting for him to found a National Emergency Committee to Keep Hanoi's Supplies Flowing — and then, at the teach-in, the students heard former Attorney General Ramsey Clark demanding that we "beg forgiveness" (presumably from North Vietnam) and that we pay "billions in reparations." Now that Clark is being mentioned as a Presidential candidate I will gladly supply him with his slogan: "Billions For Reparations But Not One Cent For National Defense." The Yale audience loved him.

Meanwhile, in a nationally televised interview, George McGovern was going — I was about to say as far as you can go, but I know in my bones that still unplumbed depths are soon to be reached. Nevertheless, McGovern was bad enough. After describing the South Vietnamese troops who are fighting and dying as "our mercenaries," he went on to say that the North Vietnamese army is "more representative of the people" than the ARVN. I forego comment in this family newspaper.

Looking at all this from a perspective of a Dartmouth professor, I can see only one bright spot. At least this time those who think of the academy as an educational institution will not be taken by surprise. We know what these politicians are going to do to the academy if they can manage to bring it off. We know the likely dates, for which preparations are already being made: April 2-4, the anniversary of Martin Luther King's assassination; April 24, when big rallies are planned for Washington, D.C. by the National Peace Action Coalition; and May 5, the anniversary of Kent State and Jackson State. Those who care about education had better prepare their defenses.

Last May at Dartmouth, as an emergency measure and in a highly charged atmosphere, the decision was made to allow students to drop out of college in the midst of the term — and still receive credit for their courses. We must resolve that this cannot happen again, for the issue goes to the heart of academic integrity. Either a student has completed a course, or he has not. Would you like to be operated on by a man who has received credit for an uncompleted course in anatomy? And there are countless other ways of resisting the corruption of the academy; for instance, the question of tax exemption. The precedent now exists for suits by both individuals and groups in the event that classes are suspended. . . . Now is the time to prepare.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Who won in the administration's battle with the construction unions to keep down costs? The unions? The administration? Or was it Arthur Burns, who relentlessly has been getting his price.

Burns, head of the Federal Reserve System, is one of the most powerful men in America, as the Nixon administration learns better each day. He has his fingers on the artery of the economic game plan—and he can pinch it.

He is the key man in monetary policy, which concerns itself with the supply of money required to keep the economy nourished. The game plan calls for an increase in the money supply. Will Burns grant it?

The Fed chairman has given neither his outright approval or disapproval, although he has implied his lack of enthusiasm. As a goal it is admirable, he said, but as a prediction it is optimistic.

This has forced nervous administration spokesmen to assure the public rather shrilly that he is on the team. "I can't believe his goal is any different from the goal of this administration," Treasury Secretary John Connally said this week at a congressional hearing.

Connally conceded what everyone knew, that if the goals of the administration are to be achieved the money supply must be increased. But Burns already has stated that the economy is flooded with money.

An increase in the money supply above 5 or 6 per cent, which the administration desires, tends to intensify inflation if maintained for a long period, the Fed chairman said.

Of course Burns shares the administration's noblest goals, which are the goals of any administration—to make the economy as healthy as possible. But the interpretation of health, and the way to achieve it, can differ greatly.

President Nixon, for example, was adamantly against an incomes policy, which is a broad term for a variety of wage and price-stabilization activities that often require direct presidential action. Burns has been advocating such a policy for months, and now the President has one.

Burns has been for a high-level price and wage review board which, "while lacking enforcement power, would have broad authority to investigate, advise, and recommend on price and wage changes."

The President has been against such a measure, but on Feb. 7, Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told a congressional committee that he "would certainly not exclude" a change of heart.

Burns last year suggested suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act, which requires government contracts to pay prevailing wages on building jobs, "in order to help restore order in the construction trades." Now it is suspended.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Feb. 27, the 58th day of 1971. There are 307 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1900, the British defeated the Boers in the battle of Paardeberg in Africa. The outcome was the creation of the Union of South Africa.

On this date: In 1700, the southwest Pacific island of New Britain was discovered by an English navigator, William Dampier.

In 1807, the American poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, was born in Portland, Maine.

In 1889, a railroad was opened in Burma from Rangoon to Mandalay.

In 1933, the German Parliament building in Berlin, the Reichstag, was burned.

In 1939, the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed sit-down strikes.

In 1944, during the Pacific war, U.S. planes hit Japanese targets in Indochina.

Ten years ago — it was reported that headway was being made in a Tunisian effort to negotiate a settlement between France and nationalist rebels in Algeria.

Five years ago—Enemy forces in South Vietnam shot up a cargo ship in the Saigon River in an unsuccessful attempt to block the strategic waterway.

One year ago — National Guardsmen took up stations near the University of California campus at Santa Barbara after four days of fighting between police and young demonstrators.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Half the woes and worries in America could be avoided if everyone simply learned to say "No!" more often.

People get in trouble because they won't take the trouble to reject half-baked ideas or alluring adventures that cannot have any but unwelcome outcomes.

Here, for example, are a few typical invitations which, if accepted, lead generally only to disaster:

"He's the only vegetarian lion in captivity, and he's been just like a member of the family since he was three weeks old. He's so gentle he'd probably faint at the sight of blood. So go ahead and pet him. He'll sulk if you don't."

"This is your lucky day. Shall I tell you what I'm going to do for you next?"

"For a mere $5, don't you want to guess which walnut shell the pea is under?"

"After all, you've been practicing on the novice's slide for an hour and a half. How about holding hands with me, and we'll go down the expert's trail together?"

"Your face looks so terribly familiar, I simply had to speak to you, young lady. Didn't I meet you at Bill Smith's shindig in Big Fang, Tex., last January?"

"A change of emotion is the only way I know to cure hiccups, Miss. Here, just let me turn off this little old lamp, and I'll creep across the sofa and see if I can scare you."

"If we go the long way back, it'll take longer. But here's an old goat track going down this side of the mountain. If we follow it, we're sure to get back quicker. Okay?"

"Well, since you can't marry me for my money because I don't have any, Hilda, will you take a chance and marry me for my boyish charm?"

"You don't get the real benefit out of jogging if you quit too soon. Suppose we go around just 10 more laps?"

"The party's getting dull. Let's liven it up, handsome. How about me sitting in your lap and rumpling your hair and see if my husband—old Big Ears over there—gets jealous?"

"This petition is bound to stir up one of the biggest controversies of the century. Don't bother to read it—just sign under the bottom paragraph and start the ball rolling."

"I'm making a getaway from a bank robbery. Mac. Here, hide this gun—and I'll mail you share of the loot to you later. Word of honor."

Grandiose Program

President Nixon, in an 18-page message to Congress, said it is time for all Americans to dedicate themselves to a decade of "restoring the environment and reclaiming the earth."

This is a noble goal, and if the government and the people were to apply themselves as they did to develop the nation's superb space program, the earth would be a better place.

His program calls for several inducements to industry, the most important of which is the proposal to levy a fee against those who use fuels that send sulphur dioxides into the air. Sulphur oxide is among the most serious pollutants in the atmosphere today. It damages $8 billion worth of property every year.

Nixon also asked for a tax on lead additives in gasoline and added that the government would set an example this year by procuring more than half of its paper supplies from stocks of recycled paper.

Many of the programs in the President's message had been reported earlier or described in his State of the Union and budget messages. Among them were proposals to restrict the use of chemicals and metals the Environmental Protection Administration determines to be hazards to the environment, and the allocation of federal money to be matched locally to upgrade waste treatment facilities.

New proposals include empowering EPA to set standards for noise control, regulation of the environmental consequences of strip mining, control of ocean dumping, new specifications for control of pesticides, and the development of new land-use plans.

This is an ambitious program, but most congressmen would be surprised if more than a smattering of it is enacted into law.

Paperwork Prospers

The age of the computer, it was argued some years ago, finally would free man of the tedium which frequently accompanied his labors. He would be able to create, to expand his horizons unencumbered by routines which could just as easily be handled by machines.

The computer has now progressed to its fourth generation, but it has not lived up to its potential in at least one important respect — paperwork. Many reasons and excuses are offered, but paperwork is still growing and continues to threaten to inundate more productive pursuits.

The leading paperwork factory, of course, is the federal government. Fantastic tons of reports, questionnaires, studies and forms flow into Washington, much of it from state and local governments but an increasing volume from individuals, corporations and other private sources.

A study by ex-Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio indicates the cost of preparing and processing federal paperwork has increased from $4 to $8 billion in the last 15 years.

As the study also showed, much of the information gathered by the paperwork specialists was not pertinent to the subject at hand. It consisted of peripheral information which someone apparently thought might be nice to gather, even if it reposed forever after in a basement storage room.

Periodically, officials in Washington rise to complaints from the public and say they are going to do something about the paperwork, but the problem only gets worse. Federal officials help it along, of course, by defending information expansions such as has occurred with the official census report.

It is one of Parkinson's laws that bureaucracy expands to fill the time and resources available to it, and there is no better filler than mountains of paperwork, as tens of thousands of public servants who have mastered the art are fully aware.

Big Deal

The price of orange juice will go up a penny a can because of the annual freeze in Florida's orange groves. Big deal. There are some citizens still around who remember when an increase of a penny a loaf in the price of bread made front page headlines. "Bread to go from 7 to 8 cents a loaf," or a reasonable facsimile thereof is what the headline said.

A penny a can more for orange juice? Forget it.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A STERN judge eyed a prisoner before him and asked, "Have you ever been sentenced before to twenty years in jail?" The prisoner, bursting into obviously phony tears, vowed, "NEVER. Your Honor." "Well, don't cry," continued the unfeeling judge. "You're going to be now!"

Absolutely essential to a surgeon performing a delicate operation is a trained scrub nurse — at his right elbow to hand him the instruments he needs without hesitation. In his new book, "The Making of a Surgeon," Dr. William Nolen tells of one top-drawer surgeon who inadvertently said "Scissors" to a nurse when he wanted a clamp. He held out his hand and she slapped the scissors into it. He took one look at what he was holding and threw it on the floor. "Damn it, nurse," he shouted. "Don't give me what I ask for; give me what I NEED!"

There are eighteen million fewer passengers riding the subways in New York this year than in 1968—and thus far nobody noticed.

A big Madison Avenue ad man was asked what he did when a carefully planned and costly campaign was rejected by an important client. He replied smoothly, "We grin and bear it—and then present our second-best idea."

"There's no use analyzing love," decided Kin Hubbard. "Take this, for example. A feller will bite a girl's neck because she has pretty legs!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Anyone who has ever had an attack of kidney stones will joyously accept this news flash.

At the Medical College of Virginia, Dr. M. J. Vernon Smith has been using a dye to dissolve kidney stones. His results are astonishing, and the animal experimentation is most encouraging.

The dye, methylene blue, has been used for years for a variety of medical reasons.

The methylene blue is taken by mouth three times a day and, apparently, is effective in dissolving existing calcium stones and in preventing others from forming.

Promising results in humans have been reported in hospitals and medical centers in various parts of the country. In many instances, the use of the dye has reduced the need for surgery.

The dye is now being studied for safety factors before being released for general use.

An ingenious idea occurred to Dr. Howard F. Raskin, at the Maryland School of Medicine.

Instead of the flat, tasteless, chalky barium given to patients to study the stomach and intestines, he gives them hamburgers.

Tastefully prepared with barium, the hamburgers are given to patients to more effectively learn how the stomach functions and empties itself.

The barium makes it possible to follow, by X-ray, the course of solid food in the stomach and intestines.

This method of X-ray examination has proved so palatable that it is already being tried in a number of hospitals.

Of course, the inevitable has happened. One patient complained that the hamburger was too rare.

The American Heart Association stresses the following rules to reduce the danger of a heart attack:

1. Maintain a normal body weight.
2. eat foods low in animal fats and cholesterol.
3. stop smoking cigarettes.
4. If you have high blood pressure, you should be under the constant supervision of your doctor. Effective drugs are available.
5. Some form of exercise in moderation is extremely beneficial.

Hope lies in this advice. Follow it.

All rough contact sports deserve good, protective headgear.

No Change Gilligan Says In Viet Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan, who thinks America should get out of Vietnam, said his position wasn't changed at a secret briefing on defense and foreign policy at the State Department Thursday.

He said he heard "nothing very new or startling or shocking" in the briefings by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

"I'm no more persuaded than when I went in," the Ohio Democrat added.

Administration sources agreed that the closed-door session dealt with little not already known to newspaper readers.

Receiving the briefing were 22 state chief executives attending the National Governors Conference, which ended Thursday.

Gilligan returned to Columbus Thursday evening.

Administration sources said subjects discussed at the briefing included U.S.-Soviet relations, the U.S. Soviet Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT), the Soviet attitude toward Red China and Moscow-Peking relations, the U.S. posture toward Red China, Nigeria, the Mideast, the Indochina war and U.S. and Asian military strength in the Pacific area.

Governors questions, they said, dealt with U.S. relations in this hemisphere, including Canada, the Soviet attitude toward the Indochina conflict, U.S. foreign aid since World War II, Cuba, prisoners of war and the attitude of youth in the United States.

According to Zadok Dunkopf, Spring can't be far away because just today he saw a department store window displaying a lot of women's fur coats.

Peace Movement

By JEFFERY HART

Having no national constituency to speak of at the moment, the Peace Movement returned to Square One last week — to the campus, naturally — and began to build up for the campaign sure to come this spring. Thus again, after a period of welcome calm, the left is moving once more to convert the academy into an instrument of its political will and to impair it as an institution of learning.

Last Monday, Gene McCarthy, formerly of coast to coast, addressed an overflow audience in Harvard's Sanders Theater. Several speakers stressed the need to avoid violence and disruption, to the general approval of the audience, but when McCarthy came on, and in his genteel way beckoned to the revolution, he too was cheered to the rafters. "We are now," he declaimed, "in the position the colonists were when they protested taxation without representation. It was not taxation they protested but lack of representation, and I say government without representation, if it is not tyranny, it may soon become such."

Woolly though this analysis is, its meaning is clear enough. McCarthy was telling his Harvard audience that the U.S. Government may "soon" become a "tyranny" — by next spring, say, when the warm weather will invite student demonstrations — and he was legitimizing in advance a modern equivalent of the colonists' Boston Tea Party.

Down at Yale, in another teach-in, the rhetoric was even more inflammatory. A couple of days before, speaking at an Alumni Day luncheon, President Kingman Brewster had denounced the Laotian operation as a moral outrage — I am waiting for him to found a National Emergency Committee to Keep Hanoi's Supplies Flowing — and then, at the teach-in, the students heard former Attorney General Ramsey Clark demanding that we "beg forgiveness" (presumably from North Vietnam) and that we pay "billions in reparations." Now that Clark is being mentioned as a Presidential candidate I will gladly supply him with his slogan: "Billions For Reparations But Not One Cent For National Defense." The Yale audience loved him.

Meanwhile, in a nationally televised interview, George McGovern was going — I was about to say as far as you can go, but I know in my bones that still unplumbed depths are soon to be reached. Nevertheless, McGovern was had enough. After describing the South Vietnamese troops who are fighting and dying as "our mercenaries," he went on to say that the North Vietnamese army is "more representative of the people" than the ARVN. I forego comment in this family newspaper.

Looking at all this from the perspective of a Dartmouth professor, I can see only one bright spot. At least this time those who think of the academy as an educational institution will not be taken by surprise. We know what these politicians are going to do to the academy if they can manage to bring it off. We know the likely dates, for which preparations are already being made: April 2-4, the anniversary of Martin Luther King's assassination; April 24, when big rallies are planned for Washington, D.C., by the National Peace Action Coalition; and May 5, the anniversary of Kent State and Jackson State. Those who care about education had better prepare their defenses.

Last May at Dartmouth, as an emergency measure and in a highly charged atmosphere, the decision was made to allow students to drop out of college in the midst of the term — and still receive credit for their courses. We must resolve that this cannot happen again, for the issue goes to the heart of academic integrity. Either a student has completed a course, or he has not. Would you like to be operated on by a man who has received credit for an uncompleted course in anatomy? And there are countless other ways of resisting the corruption of the academy; for instance, the question of tax exemption. The precedent now exists for suits by both individuals and groups in the event that classes are suspended. . . . Now is the time to prepare.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Who won in the administration's battle with the construction unions to keep down costs? The unions? The administration? Or was it Arthur Burns, who relentlessly has been getting his price.

Burns, head of the Federal Reserve System, is one of the most powerful men in America, as the Nixon administration learns better each day. He has his fingers on the artery of the economic game plan—and he can pinch it.

He is the key man in monetary policy, which concerns itself with the supply of money required to keep the economy nourished. The game plan calls for an increase in the money supply. Will Burns grant it?

The Fed chairman has given neither his outright approval or disapproval, although he has implied his lack of enthusiasm. As a goal it is admirable, he said, but as a prediction it is optimistic.

This has forced nervous administration spokesmen to assure the public rather shrilly that he is on the team. "I can't believe his goal is any different from the goal of this administration," Treasury Secretary John Connally said this week at a congressional hearing.

Connally conceded what everyone knew, that if the goals of the administration are to be achieved the money supply must be increased. But Burns already has stated that the economy is flooded with money.

An increase in the money supply above 5 or 6 per cent, which the administration desires, tends to intensify inflation if maintained for a long period, the Fed chairman said.

Of course Burns shares the administration's noblest goals, which are the goals of any administration—to make the economy as healthy as possible. But the interpretation of health, and the way to achieve it, can differ greatly.

President Nixon, for example, was adamantly against an incomes policy, which is a broad term for a variety of wage and price-stabilization activities that often require direct presidential action. Burns has been advocating such a policy for months, and now the President has one.

Burns has been for a high-level price and wage review board which, "while lacking enforcement power, would have broad authority to investigate, advise, and recommend on price and wage changes."

The President has been against such a measure, but on Feb. 7, Paul McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told a congressional committee that he "would certainly not exclude" a change of heart.

Burns last year suggested suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act, which requires government contracts to pay prevailing wages on building jobs, "in order to help restore order in the construction trades." Now it is suspended.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Saturday, Feb. 27, the 58th day of 1971. There are 307 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1900, the British defeated the Boers in the battle of Paardeberg in Africa. The outcome was the creation of the Union of South Africa.

On this date: In 1700, the southwest Pacific island of New Britain was discovered by an English navigator, William Dampier.

In 1807, the American poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, was born in Portland, Maine.

In 1880, a railroad was opened in Burma from Rangoon to Mandalay.

In 1933, the German Parliament building in Berlin, the Reichstag, was burned.

In 1939, the U.S. Supreme Court outlawed sit-down strikes. In 1944, during the Pacific war, U.S. planes hit Japanese targets in Indochina.

Ten years ago — it was reported that headway was being made in a Tunisian effort to negotiate a settlement between France and nationalist rebels in Algeria.

Five years ago—Enemy forces in South Vietnam shot up a cargo ship in the Saigon River in an unsuccessful attempt to block the strategic waterway.

One year ago — National Guardsmen took up stations near the University of California campus at Santa Barbara after four days of fighting between police and young demonstrators.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Half the woes and worries in America could be avoided if everyone simply learned to say "No!" more often.

People get in trouble because they won't take the trouble to reject half-baked ideas or alluring adventures that cannot have any but unwelcome outcomes.

Here, for example, are a few typical invitations which, if accepted, lead generally only to disaster:

"He's the only vegetarian lion in captivity, and he's been just like a member of the family since he was three weeks old. He's so gentle he'd probably faint at the sight of blood. So go ahead and pet him. He'll sulk if you don't."

"This is your lucky day. Shall I tell you what I'm going to do for you next?"

"For a mere $5, don't you want to guess which walnut shell the pea is under?"

"After all, you've been practicing on the novice's slide for an hour and a half. How about holding hands with me, and we'll go down the expert's trail together?"

"Your face looks so terribly familiar, I simply had to speak to you, young lady. Didn't I meet you at Bill Smith's shindig in Big Fang, Tex., last January?"

"A change of emotion is the only way I know to cure hiccups, Miss. Here, just let me turn off this little old lamp, and I'll creep across the sofa and see if I can scare you."

"If we go the long way back, it'll take longer. But here's an old goat track going down this side of the mountain. If we follow it, we're sure to get back quicker. Okay?"

"Well, since you can't marry me for my money because I don't have any, Hilda, will you take a chance and marry me for my boyish charm?"

"You don't get the real benefit out of jogging if you quit too soon. Suppose we go around just 10 more laps?"

"The party's getting dull. Let's live it up, handsome. Howza about me sitting in your lap and rumpling your hair and see if my husband—old Big Ears over there—gets jealous?"

"This petition is bound to stir up one of the biggest controversies of the century. Don't bother to read it—just sign under the bottom paragraph and start the ball rolling."

"I'm making a getaway from a bank robbery. -Mac. Here, hide this gun—and I'll mail your share of the loot to you later. Word of honor."

47 Juniors Take National Merit Test

On Tuesday, Feb. 16, forty-seven Teays Valley juniors took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The test is provided for a small fee to students who wish to compete for Merit scholarships, special scholarships and achievement scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Students may also take the NMSQT in order to assess their academic development.

The NMSQT is administered in most public, independent and parochial secondary schools across the country.

Teays Valley currently has three merit finalists who competed in last year's testing program. They are: Susan Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller; Robert Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Browning and John Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oran Hines.

Only finalists can be considered for Merit Scholarships. In 1971 the group of about 14,750 finalists will compete for approximately 1,000 one-time National Merit $1,000 Scholarships and for about 2,000 sponsored Merit Scholarships renewable for up to four years of college study at the accredited institution of the winner's choice.

Sophomores Study Class Ring Orders

By DIANA POBST

Sophomore class officers held a meeting last Friday with Mr. Snider to discuss the possibilities of ordering class rings this year instead of the junior year.

Two arguments were presented. The sophomores attending Eastland who might want a ring from that school, were considered as well as the possibility of students transferring during the summer who might have ordered a ring. Because of these reasons, officers decided that waiting until the junior year may be better.

Money-making ideas were then brought up. The class is considering a bake sale around Easter in downtown Ashville and a car wash at the high

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

'Abby, I Married The Wrong Man'

DEAR ABBY: What does a girl do when she realizes she married the wrong man? I knew right after I married Tom (not his real name) that I should have waited for Roger (not his real name either). Roger was in the service at the time.

Three years later I realize that I still love Roger. My husband is good to me and our two babies and I really have no complaints, but I feel so guilty not being able to return the love he gives me. My thoughts keep going back to Roger.

I hear that Roger is still single. Should I try to get in touch with him and see if he still feels the same way about me? Or do you think it's too late?

WRONG CHOICE

DEAR WRONG: Don't try to get in touch with Roger. If he still feels the same way about you (or if you let him know how you feel), he might be encouraged to revive that love he once had for you, then what would you have? Possibly an affair outside your marriage. Or a broken marriage, which would be unfair to your husband and children. To seek happiness at the expense of another never works.

DEAR ABBY: I am 6 foot 4, weigh 240 pounds, am told I'm good-looking and I play college football. They all call me "lady killer," but when I go out with a girl I'm the one who gets killed. Would you believe I don't know how to get anywhere with a girl? I get all the encouragement a guy in his right mind needs, but I don't do anything about it. When I get home, I could kick myself. Am I normal or not?

King Blasts Nixon Move

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King says President Nixon's move to curb wages in the building trades "won't work."

Union workers will not accept pay below prevailing wages, King said in an interview, and non-union contractors will not reduce bids enough to dent the inflationary spiral.

Nixon suspended Tuesday the 40-year-old Davis-Bacon Act requiring the government to pay prevailing wages on federal construction projects.

"I predict that skilled craftsmen will have no truck with this," King said. "They will sit it out and accept unemployment compensation."

Non-union contractors will bid just low enough to land a federal contract, he said, and "pocket the difference" because they can legally pay low wages.

Sight-Seeing Route Blamed For 31-Death Air Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators have blamed the 31-death Wichita State University football disaster on a sightseeing route that wound up in a dead-end canyon.

The National Transportation Safety Board made the finding in a report due to be issued next Wednesday.

The NTSB cited what it termed the intentional operation of the rented airliner over rugged mountain terrain into a sudden situation where the plane could not climb a towering ridge in front of it and had no room to turn around.

"Too low, too slow," said a safety source with access to the still-confidential report.

The aging, twin engine propeller-driven plane, making its first passenger flight after coming out of mothballs, crashed last Oct. 2 about 2,000 feet below the Continental Divide in a Rocky Mountain canyon west of Denver, Colo.

The NTSB report quotes hearing testimony that the plane was taking a sightseeing path through the Rockies en route to a game at Utah State.

The Continental Divide towers abruptly at the end of the canyon at Loveland Pass. Investigators said the canyon was only a quarter-mile wide where the crash occurred as the plane tried to turn around.

The NTSB has already upheld the revocation of the air taxi and commercial flying licenses of the pilots' firm, Golden Eagle Aviation, Inc., of Oklahoma City, Okla. It found that the doomed airliner was nearly 3,000 pounds overweight when it took off to try to climb over the Rockies.

Still under investigation by the NTSB is the 75-death disaster ter that virtually wiped out the Marshall University football team only a month after the Wichita State crash. The NTSB is not expected to issue its report on that accident until much later this year.

The two charter crashes came during the first death-free year ever for scheduled airliners in the continental United States.

The Wichita State tragedy spurred the Federal Aviation Administration to push new proposals to tighten its regulations on nonairline charters.

The NTSB report, in retracing the circumstances that led to the Wichita State crash, applauded this FAA effort and attached its only suggestions for more control.

Alaska Pipeline Plan Defended

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)

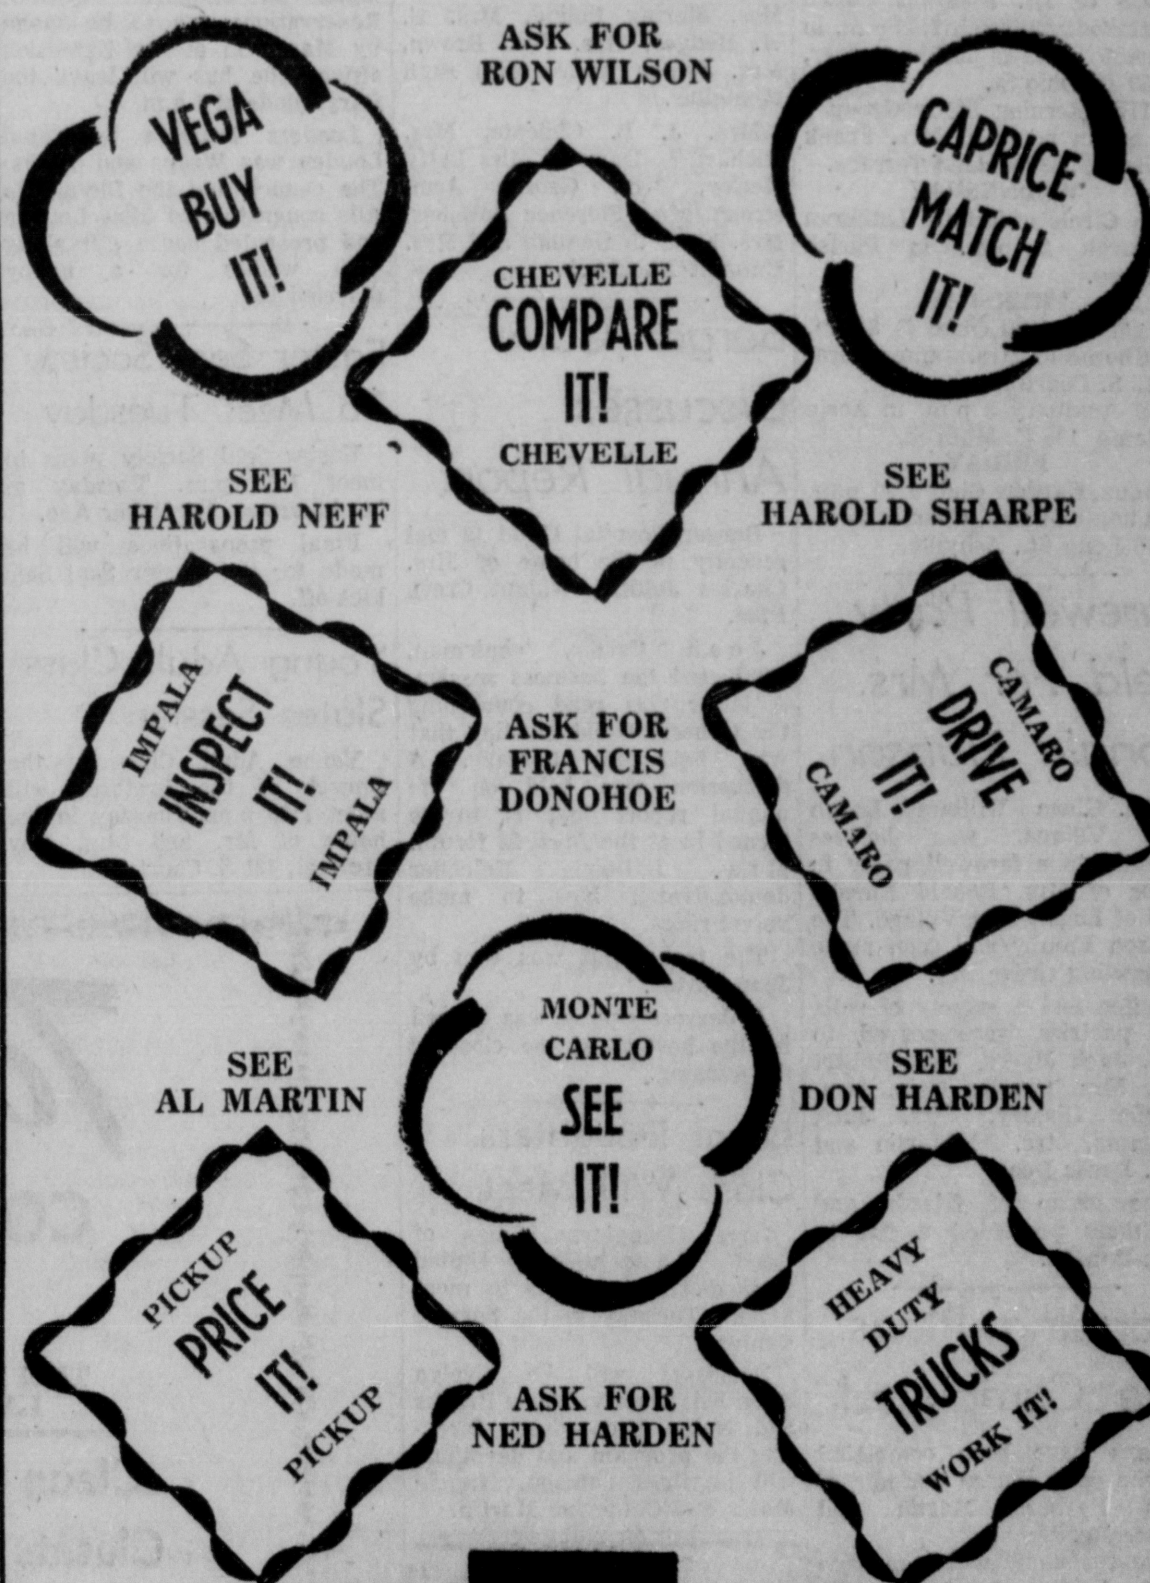

— The firm proposing a pipeline to bring Alaska oil from the Arctic to market used a team of scientists to defend the billion dollar project at an Interior Department hearing.

Aleyeska Pipeline Service Co. said in a second day of hearings Thursday the pipeline from the North Slope to Valdez will be acceptable from biological, botanical, and engineering standpoints.

Opponents avoided attacking Aleyeska's specifics headon and instead concentrated on the general social and cultural impact they said the pipeline would have on Alaska. Much of the testimony, seemingly resigned to the fact a permit for the project will be issued, pleaded for broader studies by the Interior Department.

47 Juniors Take National Merit Test

On Tuesday, Feb. 16, forty-seven Teays Valley juniors took the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The test is provided for a small fee to students who wish to compete for Merit scholarships, special scholarships and achievement scholarships administered by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Students may also take the NMSQT in order to assess their academic development.

The NMSQT is administered in most public, independent and parochial secondary schools across the country.

Teays Valley currently has three merit finalists who competed in last year's testing program. They are: Susan Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller; Robert Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Browning and John Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlan Hines.

Only finalists can be considered for Merit Scholarships. In 1971 the group of about 14,750 finalists will compete for approximately 1,000 one-time National Merit $1,000 Scholarships and for about 2,000 sponsored Merit Scholarships renewable for up to four years of college study at the accredited institution of the winner's choice.

Dinner-Concert Is Successful

By STEPHANIE DENMAN
The Teays Valley Music Department held a dinner-concert Jan. 31. Profit made was $472.36, all of which will go towards buying new uniforms for the band.

The concert was considered one of the most successful the Music Department has ever presented. Many people commented that the dinner-concert was one of the most enjoyable they had ever attended.

water skiing, bowling and swimming.

Karen's favorite subject is home economics, color blue, food steak and her favorite song is "Don't Let the Sun Set on You in Tulsa."

She dislikes snobs. Her feeling about graduation is that it will be great, but she will miss everyone. Karen plans to attend Columbus Business University following graduation.

Class Ring Orders

By DIANA POBST

Sophomore class officers held a meeting last Friday with Mr. Snider to discuss the possibilities of ordering class rings this year instead of the junior year.

Two arguments were presented. The sophomores attending Eastland who might want a ring from that school, were considered as well as the possibility of students transferring during the summer who might have ordered a ring. Because of these reasons, officers decided that waiting until the junior year may be better.

Money-making ideas were then brought up. The class is considering a bake sale around Easter in downtown Ashville and a car wash at the high

'Day Off' Activities Are Revealed

Inquiring reporters Sharon Reed and Joan Leedy asked Teays Valley students what they did the day school was dismissed because of snow. Here are some of the answers:

Roger Bell — Rode Ron Swank's minibike on the pond.

Pam Younkin — Slept.

Stephanie Cain — Went home and went to bed.

Sharon Reed — Got stuck in a snow drift with a sled!

Bob Meadows — Played in the snow!

Teresa Ohol — Went ice skating.

Charles Worthington — Got stuck in a snow drift on purpose!

Dave McCoy — Didn't do anything but sleep.

Robin McManus — Went to visit at the trailer court.

Ken Stewart — Ran around town.

Karen Brown — Tried to learn how to roller skate.

Gordon Prince — I rode my motorcycle in the snow.

Keith Hoffines — I rode my motorcycle in the snow drifts.

Dave Chaffin — Beats me!

Tim Morgan — I went over to Butch's house.

Skip Edwards — Went to work.

Gary Johnson — Made a pizza, like I do every other day.

Band Newsettes

By DEB IRWIN

Teays Valley Music Department is selling oranges and grapefruit again.

Students are hoping to sell a whole truckload. Profits from the sale will go toward the purchasing of new band uniforms. If anyone is interested in buying fruit, please contact any band member. The sale ends Mar. 12.

Members of the Teays Valley Band are competing in the State Solo and Ensemble Contest at Brookhaven High School on February 27. Various solos and ensembles will attend.

The band basketball team has a record of 1 win and 1 loss this year.

The band girls have also played volleyball against different clubs.

The band played Westfall's band last Tuesday night.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

'Abby, I Married The Wrong Man'

DEAR ABBY: What does a girl do when she realizes she married the wrong man? I knew right after I married Tom (not his real name) that I should have waited for Roger (not his real name either). Roger was in the service at the time.

Three years later I realize that I still love Roger. My husband is good to me and our two babies and I really have no complaints, but I feel so guilty not being able to return the love he gives me. My thoughts keep going back to Roger.

I hear that Roger is still single. Should I try to get in touch with him and see if he still feels the same way about me? Or do you think it's too late?

WRONG CHOICE

DEAR WRONG: Don't try to get in touch with Roger. If he still feels the same way about you (or if you let him know how you feel), he might be encouraged to revive that love he once had for you, then what would you have? Possibly an affair outside your marriage. Or a broken marriage, which would be unfair to your husband and children. To seek happiness at the expense of another never works.

DEAR ABBY: I am 6 foot 4, weigh 240 pounds, am told I'm good-looking and I play college football. They all call me "lady killer," but when I go out with a girl I'm the one who gets killed. Would you believe I don't know how to get anywhere with a girl? I get all the encouragement a guy in his right mind needs, but I don't do anything about it. When I get home, I could kick myself. Am I normal or not?

King Blasts Nixon Move

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King says President Nixon's move to curb wages in the building trades "won't work."

Union workers will not accept pay below prevailing wages, King said in an interview, and non-union contractors will not reduce bids enough to dent the inflationary spiral.

Nixon suspended Tuesday the 40-year-old Davis-Bacon Act requiring the government to pay prevailing wages on federal construction projects.

"I predict that skilled craftsmen will have no truck with this," King said. "They will sit it out and accept unemployment compensation."

Non-union contractors will bid just low enough to land a federal contract, he said, and "pocket the difference" because they can legally pay low wages.

Gynecologist Says Women Should Know Themselves

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A girl's chromosomes make her female but her environment and childhood conditioning make her feminine, says Dr. Richard E. Sand.

"Though I think most women like being women, this doesn't mean that they can't do any work a man does," insists the obstetrician-gynecologist who recently wrote a new book for and about women, "Things Your Mother Never Told You." "It's true that women's emotions change at different times of the month, but women's emotions are no more changeable than men's."

Dr. Sand, a strong advocate of sex education, of disseminating information on contraception and of legalized abortion, wrote the book to fill a need. He explained that in his practice he became aware that even the most sophisticated and highly educated women knew very little about what is normal, what is abnormal and when to seek a doctor's advice.

"They read the sensational one-sided articles in magazines and panic," he points out. "For example, the pill. It's the most dependable method of birth control around today other than abstinence, which has certain obvious disadvantages and will never be very popular."

"There's a risk involved in taking the pill, but every day we take certain calculated risks in everything we do," he continues, "and you must consider the benefit derived versus the risk incurred in each case. The risk involved in taking the pill has been computed to be less than the risk incurred in a pregnancy."

Dr. Sand, who has noticed in his practice that limiting the family to two children is the pattern now, thinks the maternal instinct is vastly overrated. "The maternal thing may not be an instinct but may only be learned," he says. "It is no longer the 'in' thing to do to have a family and I know many young people who don't intend to have children."

The pipe-smoking physician, father of two teen-age daughters, says he feels strongly that every young person, both male and female, must have contraceptive knowledge. Methods of contraception should be easily available to every young woman, he adds, and failing this he favors abortion on demand.

"It is the inalienable right — a basic human right — of every woman to decide whether she should or should not carry a child," he declares. "It is not a political matter, but a matter of concern only to the woman, perhaps to her husband if she has one, and her physician. And no one should interpose himself between these people."

Dr. Sand, who as medical director of the Los Angeles Florence Crittenton home for pregnant single girls has seen the tragedy of 12-year-old mothers, admits he is not happy about doing abortions.

"It's not my job to take lives he says. "But when you think of the thousands of lives that are being saved today with legalized abortions — there are an estimated 100,000 deaths a year from criminal abortions — though it's a conflict I feel it's my duty to interrupt these pregnancies."

"Many of those people who have expressed strong opposition to legalized abortion are not women and not physicians who have had to deal with this problem. The fastest way to become a convert for legalized abortion is to be standing at the bedside of a young woman who has died as the result of a criminal abortion and have to go out and tell the family."

"It's legal to kill in a war, it's perfectly proper to execute a criminal," he goes on. "There are times when one life is more precious than another. How can you compare the theoretical life of an embryo against the life and future of a healthy adult woman with other children?"

But the real answer, he says, is sex education in the schools, with the curriculum established by parents and educators. Instructors should be carefully selected, well trained and supervised so that as little of their attitudes as possible are conveyed to the students.

"Anatomy and physiology of the reproductive system should be taught, as well as contraception and all essential information," he says, "but when it comes to morality, that is a parental responsibility that should not be abdicated by the parent nor usurped by the school."

"What I say about the need of kids to have birth control information is not hearsay," adds Dr. Sand, who is in private practice in Los Angeles. "The average 18-year-old girl I see in the office is almost never a virgin."

Though he's in sympathy with women's lib in many respects, the gynecologist does disagree with the current no bra fad.

"As a semi-professional girl watcher I love the no - bra scene," he admits, "but as a doctor I must warn those who are adequately endowed that the suspensory ligaments of the breast are very weak and these girls are going to acquire a fallen bosom more easily than they'll get fallen arches."

GOP Solons Fear Viet War Could Doom Nixon In 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits has said out loud what some other Republican senators are saying privately: The Vietnam war could doom President Nixon next year as it did former President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968.

"The ship of state may be headed for the same rocks which broke up and sank the presidency of President Johnson," Javits, a New York Republican, told the Mid-America World Trade Conference in Chicago Thursday night. He called for total withdrawal by mid-1972.

This view was given support when another Republican, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland, said in an interview that, unless Congress moves "to assist the President in ending the war, the whole political picture may become very fluid in the next 12 months."

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., who has called for a national debate on whether President Nixon's actions in Laos and Cambodia warrant his impeachment, earlier mentioned the possibility of an antiwar challenge to Nixon unless the end of the war is in sight before the New Hampshire primary March 14, 1972.

According to one GOP senator, who asked that he not be quoted, concern over the political impact of Nixon's Indochina policies is accelerating in Republican circles. There is even some talk, he added, of how this might lead to a challenge similar to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's race against Johnson three years ago.

"It seems to me," Javits said in Chicago, "that the Nixon administration faces the same dilemma now which faced the Johnson administration in 1967. 'I am speaking here,' he added, "of the 'winning' and 'losing' syndrome which spurred President Johnson on to those measures of military escalation and insensitivity to public opinion which brought his political career to an end."

The senior GOP member of the Senate and its Foreign Relations Committee, Vermont's George D. Aiken, conceded "there is always the possibility" Vietnam will bring down Nixon as it did Johnson.

"But I think President Nixon can profit from President Johnson's example, perhaps," he said. "I hope so. I haven't given up yet."

If U.S. troop withdrawals continue and casualties stay down, Aiken said, "The Democrats will have a much stronger case on domestic issues."

Colonel Faces Court Martial For My Lai Probe Failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Friday ordered a general court-martial trial for Col. Oran A. Henderson on charges that he "willfully failed to conduct a proper and thorough investigation" of the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam.

At the same time, the Army dismissed "failure to obey lawful regulations" which have been filed against Capt. Dennis H. Johnson, an intelligence officer.

This means that only one of 14 officers originally charged in connection with an alleged My Lai coverup will stand trial.

Henderson, 50, of Indianapolis, was commander of the 11th Infantry Brigade at the time of the My Lai incident on March 16, 1968.

The brigade was parent of an infantry task force which swept through the hamlet area where more than 100 South Vietnamese men, women and children allegedly were slain by members of a platoon headed by Lt. William Calley, who is now on trial at Ft. Benning, Ga., on murder charges.

In addition to a dereliction of duty charge, Henderson will be tried for failure to obey a lawful regulation, making a false official statement and false swearing.

If convicted of all charges, Henderson could receive a maximum sentence of six years at hard labor, the Army said.

The court-martial will be held at Ft. Meade, Md., but no date has yet been set.

Lt. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman, soon to retire as commander of the 1st Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, "determined that there was sufficient evidence to refer the charges for trial by general court-martial," the Army said.

Richard Dunham Gynecologist Says Women Should Know Themselves

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A girl's chromosomes make her female but her environment and childhood conditioning make her feminine, says Dr. Richard E. Sand.

"Though I think most women like being women, this doesn't mean that they can't do any work a man does," insists the obstetrician-gynecologist who recently wrote a new book for and about women, "Things Your Mother Never Told You."

"It's true that women's emotions change at different times of the month, but women's emotions are no more changeable than men's."

Dr. Sand, a strong advocate of sex education, of disseminating information on contraception and of legalized abortion, wrote the book to fill a need. He explained that in his practice he became aware that even the most sophisticated and highly educated women knew very little about what is normal, what is abnormal and when to seek a doctor's advice.

"They read the sensational one-sided articles in magazines and panic," he points out. "For example, the pill. It's the most dependable method of birth control around today other than abstinence, which has certain obvious disadvantages and will never be very popular."

"There's a risk involved in taking the pill, but every day we take certain calculated risks in everything we do," he continues, "and you must consider the benefit derived versus the risk involved in each case. The risk involved in taking the pill has been computed to be less than the risk incurred in a pregnancy."

Dr. Sand, who has noticed in his practice that limiting the family to two children is the pattern now, thinks the maternal instinct is vastly overrated. "The maternal thing may not be an instinct but may only be learned," he says. "It is no longer the 'in' thing to do to have a family and I know many young people who don't intend to have children."

The pipe-smoking physician, father of two teen-age daughters, says he feels strongly that every young person, both male and female, must have contraceptive knowledge. Methods of contraception should be easily available to every young woman, he adds, and failing this he favors abortion on demand.

"It is the inalienable right — a basic human right — of every woman to decide whether she should or should not carry a child," he declares. "It is not a political matter, it is not a theological matter, but a matter of concern only to the woman, perhaps to her husband if she has one, and her physician. And no one should interpose himself between these people."

Dr. Sand, who as medical director of the Los Angeles Florence Crittenton home for pregnant single girls has seen the tragedy of 12-year-old mothers, admits he is not happy about doing abortions.

"It's not my job to take lives he says. 'But when you think of the thousands of lives that are being saved today with legalized abortions — there are an estimated 100,000 deaths a year from criminal abortions — though it's a conflict I feel it's my duty to interrupt these pregnancies."

"Many of those people who have expressed strong opposition to legalized abortion are not women and not physicians who have had to deal with this problem. The fastest way to become a convert for legalized abortion is to be standing at the bedside of a young woman who has died as the result of a criminal abortion and have to go out and tell the family."

"It's legal to kill in a war, it's perfectly proper to execute a criminal," he goes on. "There are times when one life is more precious than another. How can you compare the theoretical life of an embryo against the life and future of a healthy adult woman with other children?"

But the real answer, he says, is sex education in the schools, with the curriculum established by parents and educators. Instructors should be carefully selected, well trained and supervised so that as little of their attitudes as possible are conveyed to the students.

"Anatomy and physiology of the reproductive system should be taught, as well as contraception and all essential information," he says, "but when it comes to morality, that is a parental responsibility that should not be abdicated by the parent nor usurped by the school."

"What I say about the need of kids to have birth control information is not hearsay," adds Dr. Sand, who is in private practice in Los Angeles. "The average 18-year-old girl I see in the office is almost never a virgin."

Though he's in sympathy with women's lib in many respects, the gynecologist does disagree with the current no bra fad.

"As a semi-professional girl watcher I love the no-bra scene," he admits, "but as a doctor I must warn those who are adequately endowed that the suspensory ligaments of the breast are very weak and these girls are going to acquire a fallen bosom more easily than they'll get fallen arches."

Extension Council Meets

Extension Homemakers Council met at the Pickaway County Agricultural Extension office recently with 12 members present.

Joan Dawson, president, opened the meeting by leading members in repeating the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America. Madge Baum called roll with the answer being what each had baked last.

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers for the year as president, Mrs. Doris Parsons, vice president, Mrs. Alice Herron; secretary, Mrs. Carolyn Young and treasurer, Mrs. Norma Toland.

The Spring All-County Meeting was discussed. The theme will be "Outdoors" and will be at the Ashville Community shelter house on April 20th.

The All County Extension Tour for March 30 to Cincinnati will visit the Clover Nook for the blind and the Globe Corp., manufacturers of ladies and men's clothing. They will have lunch at Shullers Wigwam. Reservations are to be made by March 15 at the Extension office. The bus will leave the fairgrounds at 7 a.m.

Leaders Training by Penni Louden was Wraps and Packs. The council and the Duval Do Alls congratulated Miss Louden and presented her a gift along with wishes for a happy married life.

GOP Solons Fear Viet War Could Doom Nixon In 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits has said out loud what some other Republican senators are saying privately: The Vietnam war could doom President Nixon next year as it did former President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968.

"The ship of state may be headed for the same rocks which broke up and sank the presidency of President Johnson," Javits, a New York Republican, told the Mid-America World Trade Conference in Chicago Thursday night. He called for total withdrawal by mid-1972.

This view was given support when another Republican, Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland, said in an interview that, unless Congress moves "to assist the President in ending the war, the whole political picture may become very fluid in the next 12 months."

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., who has called for a national debate on whether President Nixon's actions in Laos and Cambodia warrant his impeachment, earlier mentioned the possibility of an antiwar challenge to Nixon unless the end of the war is in sight before the New Hampshire primary March 14, 1972.

According to one GOP senator, who asked that he not be quoted, concern over the political impact of Nixon's Indochina policies is accelerating in Republican circles. There is even some talk, he added, of how this might lead to a challenge similar to Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's race against Johnson three years ago.

"It seems to me," Javits said in Chicago, "that the Nixon administration faces the same dilemma now which faced the Johnson administration in 1967. 'I am speaking here,' he added, "of the 'winning' and 'losing' syndrome which spurred President Johnson on to those measures of military escalation and insensitivity to public opinion which brought his political career to an end."

The senior GOP member of the Senate and its Foreign Relations Committee, Vermont's George D. Aiken, conceded "there is always the possibility" Vietnam will bring down Nixon as it did Johnson.

"But I think President Nixon can profit from President Johnson's example, perhaps," he said. "I hope so. I haven't given up yet."

If U.S. troop withdrawals continue and casualties stay down, Aiken said, "The Democrats will have a much stronger case on domestic issues."

Colonel Faces Court Martial For My Lai Probe Failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Friday ordered a general court-martial trial for Col. Oran A. Henderson on charges that he "willfully failed to conduct a proper and thorough investigation" of the alleged My Lai massacre in Vietnam.

At the same time, the Army dismissed "failure to obey lawful regulations" which have been filed against Capt. Dennis H. Johnson, an intelligence officer.

This means that only one of 14 officers originally charged in connection with an alleged My Lai coverup will stand trial.

Henderson, 50, of Indianapolis, was commander of the 11th Infantry Brigade at the time of the My Lai incident on March 16, 1968.

The brigade was parent of an infantry task force which swept through the hamlet area where more than 100 South Vietnamese men, women and children allegedly were slain by members of a platoon headed by Lt. William Calley, who is now on trial at Ft. Benning, Ga., on murder charges.

In addition to a dereliction of duty charge, Henderson will be tried for failure to obey a lawful regulation, making a false official statement and false swearing.

If convicted of all charges, Henderson could receive a maximum sentence of six years at hard labor, the Army said.

The court-martial will be held at Ft. Meade, Md., but no date has yet been set.

Lt. Gen. Jonathan O. Seaman, soon to retire as commander of the 1st Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, "determined that there was sufficient evidence to refer the charges for trial by general court-martial," the Army said.

Westfall Bumped From Tourney Trail

A cold first quarter for Westfall and a solid clutch performance by Madison South in the fourth quarter added up to an 80-74 defeat for the Mustangs in sectional tournament play at Lancaster Friday.

The Westfall cagers fired a dozen shots at the bucket during the first seven minutes of the initial quarter, none of them going through the hoop.

Bruce Beatty finally broke the ice with exactly 1:02 showing on the clock. Four foul shots prior to that bucket and another field goal by Larry Kempton at the buzzer accounted for the eight points the Mustangs had on the board at the end of the first quarter.

It was a different story for the Madison South Lions. They zipped the first four shots they took from the field through the nets and jumped out to an 11-0 lead. The biggest margin separating the two teams in the first quarter was 13 points, 6-3. At the end of the first quarter, the Lions had 18 points on the score boards.

THE Mustangs' man-to-man press began to have a telling effect in the second quarter and with about two minutes to go to halftime Beatty tied the score at 27-27 with a pair of charity tosses.

By halftime, the Lions led 33-31. And the rest of the game was nip and tuck. Never more than four points separated the two teams. The lead changed hands 16 times in the final two quarters and the score was tied on three different occasions, the last at 74-74 with 1:16 to play.

The last minute and a half belonged to Madison South. With 1:17 to go, Steve Vallery put the Lions ahead with a pair of free throws. With 42 seconds on the clock Jon Whitaker

Bucks Trip Cincy Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Milwaukee Bucks, with one title under their belt, are shooting for another as the end of the season approaches—and that one would be two records.

The Bucks, already assured of being the year's winningest team in the National Basketball Association, must try to avoid dropping more than one of their remaining dozen contests to set the mark for the fewest setbacks.

They careened to their 14th victory in a row and their 59th in 70 games Friday night, pounding Cincinnati 135-111. In other NBA action Baltimore ripped Portland 114-97, Boston clipped Atlanta 136-129 in overtime, Phoenix flipped Philadelphia 108-94, Detroit nipped Buffalo 122-122 in overtime and Los Angeles zipped Seattle 145-121.

In the lone American Basketball Association game, Denver blasted Texas 142-120.

By averting defeat the rest of the way—or even taking one game on the chin—Milwaukee would crack the mark of 13 setbacks set by Philadelphia in the 1966-67 season.

And by doing so the Bucks would automatically break another record the 76ers recorded that season—68 triumphs, the most in the league's history.

Milwaukee had the game all but locked up after just one period against the Royals, hitting 17 of 27 first-period shots for a 43-29 lead. The Bucks led by 19 at the half and opened it to 33 by the end of three quarters.

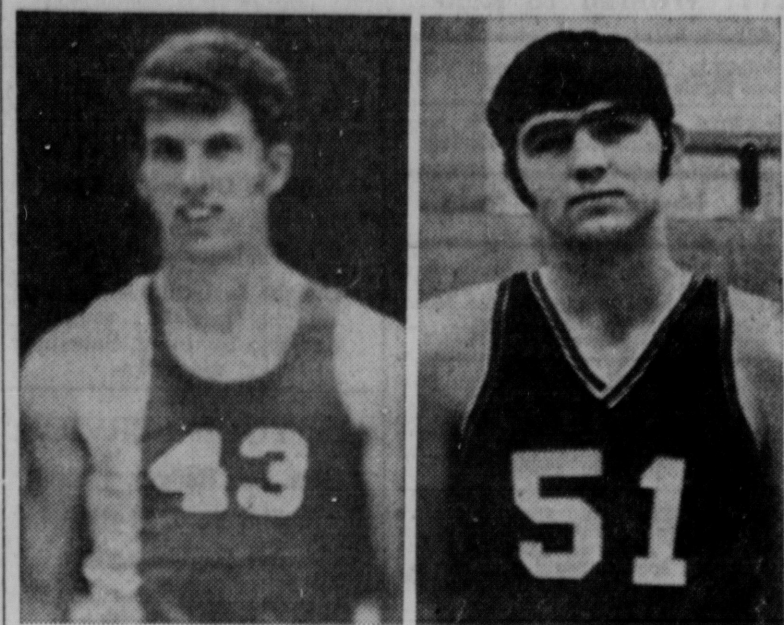

NOBODY wants to give an inch here, so the play on the 18th green in an 18-hole U.S. Open championship playoff between Sam Snead (left) and Lew Worsham (left in group bending over) on June 15, 1947, in St. Louis is stopped until officials measure distances of their shots from the cup for honors. Snead was 30 inches away, Worsham 29½ inches. Snead putted, missed, and picked up his ball and threw it away. Worsham then sank his putt to win the coveted title.

Knece, Beatty Selected To SVC All-Star Cage Team

BRUCE BEATTY

MARK KNECE

Mark Knece of Logan Elm and Bruce Beatty of Westfall have been named to the Scioto Valley Conference all-star basketball squad.

Knece, a senior, is a repeater to the team and Beatty, a junior, is making his first appearance in the star studded lineup.

Dave Hammond, a Zane Trace junior, was named player of the year and Zane Trace mentor, Ron Hall, was selected coach of the year. Hammond was the mainstay of the Pioneer squad averaging 20 points and 12 rebounds a game.

Other members of the SVC team are: Dwight Garrett, Sr., Adena; Dave Thompson, Sr., and Roger Weaver, Sr., Laurelville; John Welch, Jr., Zane Trace; Jeff Whitt, Jr., Paint Valley; Rick Evans, Jr., Unioto; Joe Ward, Sr., Piketon.

Honorable mention recognition went to Jerry Williams, Sr., Westfall; Dan Sykes, Soph., Logan Elm; Steve McCabe, Sr., Laurelville; Chris Brown, Jr., Adena; Chris Benner, Jr., Paint Valley and Rick Cryder, Sr., Unioto.

Capital, Wittenberg Win OC Cage Tourney Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Capital clashes with Wittenberg, Denison meets Otterbein, Oberlin goes against Baldwin-Wallace and Hiram faces Mount Union tonight in the second round games of the Ohio Conference Basketball tournament.

Capital whipped Muskingum 86-44, Wittenberg downed Ohio Wesleyan 82-70 and Denison defeated Marietta 98-92 in the tourney's southern division play at Denison Friday night. Otterbein drew a first round bye.

Oberlin edged Kenyon 72-70 and Hiram thumped Heidelberg 76-66 in northern division action at Baldwin-Wallace, while byedrawing Mount Union was idle.

Capital shot 60 per cent from the field in the first half in taking a quick lead over Muskingum. The Crusaders were paced by Bob Arnold with 20 points.

Wittenberg, paced by Larry Baker with 33 points, caught fire in the second half to expand a three-point intermission lead.

Billie Jean King Wins Quarter-Final
WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — Billie Jean King, the nation's foremost women's tennis player, figures she has regained her game after a slight slump in the last couple of tournaments on the $100,000 Virginia Slims Circuit.

"I haven't been happy with my game the last 2½ weeks, but I think I'm bringing it back now," the 27-year-old Californian said Friday night after whipping Australia's Judy Tegart Dalton 6-0, 6-2 in a quarter-final of the $12,500 National Women's Indoor Championships.

out of Ohio Wesleyan's reach.

Denison, locked in a tight duel with Marietta, went on a nine-point scoring spree midway through the second half to go ahead for good. Bill Harris led the Big Red with 28 points.

Oberlin came back from a 12-point halftime deficit to trim Kenyon. The Yoemen went into a stall with the score tied 70-70 and 1:53 left to play. Then Earl ingleton swished the winning basket with three seconds on the clock.

Hiram built up a 10-point lead over Heidelberg midway through the second half and coasted to victory.

In the only other Ohio college basketball game Friday night, Bethany defeated Case Tech with a rally in the final four minutes of play.

Haywood Fighting NBA Order

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An interpretation of the National Basketball Association's rules and whether the organization comes under antitrust laws surrounds the long, involved case of Spencer Haywood, a pro basketball star without a team.

During a lengthy hearing Friday in U.S. District Court here, Judge Warren J. Ferguson took under advisement a request by Haywood that the NBA be held in violation of antitrust laws. Then the judge heard testimony from Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA, who said he was once interested in signing Haywood.

Since jumping the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association during a contract dispute and signing with the NBA's Seattle SuperSonics, Haywood has been in hot water. No other NBA team has recognized his status as a player and the SuperSonics have played each game since signing him with the opponent protesting the game.

Cooke said he was interested in getting Haywood himself when he learned of the 21-year-old player's unhappiness at Denver. But Cooke said he contacted the NBA Commissioner, J. Walter Kennedy, and was told signing Haywood would violate NBA rules.

Clark Graebner Wins Tennis Clash

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Clark Graebner, No. 1 seeded American, has beaten Thomas Koch of Brazil to advance to the semi-finals of the singles competition in the Macon International Tennis Tournament.

After whipping Koch 6-2, 3-6 and 7-5, Friday Graebner teamed with Koch in the doubles to beat second-seeded Gerald Battick and Peter Curtis, both of England, 6-4 and 7-6.

Agnew's Golfing Wins Vacation For Couple

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Salem, Ore., couple is being sought by an Atlanta radio station for a trip to Florida—all because the wife was struck by one of Vice President Spiro Agnew's golf shots.

Mrs. G.L. Decker was hit on the wrist by one of the Vice President's wayward shots at the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic. The event was witnessed by a national television audience.

Radio Station WSB and Eastern Air Lines, during this time, cosponsored a contest to determine the "world's worst golf shot." The radio station was deluged with nominations for the Vice President and ultimately awarded him the trip to the Doral-Eastern Golf Tournament in Florida.

The Vice President gave the trip to Mr. and Mrs. Decker, if they can be located.

Baltimore Colts Eye New Stadium

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts, having lost their personnel director and raised most of their ticket prices, have confirmed they want to move into a new stadium.

Don Klosterman, Colts general manager, said Friday he has told the City Park Board the National Football League club would leave Memorial Stadium after the 1972 season.

Cougars Defeat Arizona, 95-83

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer
Quote from the Brigham Young University basketball guide: "Kresimir Cosic ... could do a job for the Cougars."

Quote from Wake Forest's Charlie Davis Friday night: "Bud Martin did a heckuva job on me and made me work for every shot."

Quote from William Shakespeare: "If all the year were playing holidays, to sport would be as tedious as to work."

If all the year were playing holidays like Friday night, hard-working Kresimir Cosic and Charlie Davis could become the pride of basketball's blue-collar set and send everyone else home with a severe case of the working man's blues.

Cosic, BYU's 6-foot-11 sophomore from Zadar, Yugoslavia set a school record by making all 12 field goals—he also canned his four free throws and pulled down 16 rebounds—as the Cougars beat Arizona 95-83.

That kept them in a tie for the Western Athletic Conference lead with Utah, which downed Arizona State 106-97 behind Earl Laster's 28 points.

Meanwhile, Davis, Wake For-

est's super senior guard from New York City, was having an off night ... compared to Cosic. Al Davis did, despite the tenuous guarding of Clemson's Martin, was sink 10 of 12 floor shots and seven of eight free throws as the hot-shooting Deacons rolled to a 61-54 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over the Tigers.

Before missing his fifth free throw, Davis had made 32 in a row against Clemson in the Tigers' Littlejohn Coliseum. In six games against Clemson over three years Davis has scored 193 points.

Fourth-ranked Pennsylvania was the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action and the unbeaten Quakers ran their record to 23-0 and clinched at least a tie for their second consecutive Ivy League crown with a 96-82 rout of Brown.

Elsewhere among the Ivies, Harvard whipped Columbia 85-66 behind Dale Dover's 23 points and assured itself of its first winning season in the league since 1937-39. The triumph also enabled the Crimson to tie Columbia for second place with three games remaining.

Sophomore flash Brian Taylor poured in 31 points as Princeton crushed Yale 108-64 and James Brown pumped in 22 and Paul Erland 20 in Dartmouth's 99-83 victory over Cornell. Ken Wiens had 34 for the losers.

Temple, one of Fordham's two conquerors, gave tournament-hopeful Villanova all it could handle before Hank Siemionkowski's 16-foot turnaround jumper with two seconds left lifted the Wildcats to a 67-65 triumph. The winning basket came after Clarence Smith swined an inbound pass with 10 seconds to play.

Long Beach State, rated 20th and the only other ranking team in action Friday night, made it 14 straight with a 63-61 conquest of San Diego State.

Also on the West Coast, California trounced Oregon 103-72, Stanford downed Oregon State 97-85 and UC-Santa Barbara turned back San Jose State 77-64.

Rich Yunkus' 32 points and 14 rebounds snarled Georgia Tech over Tampa 99-72.

Vikings Blast Fredericktown In Tourney Action, 88-52

After a tight first half Teays Valley broke the game wide open in the third quarter and crushed Fredericktown, 88-52, in the opening round of the Central District Class AA tournament Friday at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Bob Tucker continued his torrid scoring pace hitting 12 from the field and 12 from the charity stripe for 36 tallies to lead the Viking's attack.

Turnovers hampered the Blue and Gold offense in the opening period and the quick Fredericktown cagers jumped out to an early lead. Teays Valley fought back and managed to grab a 15-12 margin at the end of the first stanza.

They battled on even terms in the second frame and the Vikings were on the long end of a 35-30 count at halftime.

THEN the lads from Teays Valley began to put it all together in the third quarter and from then on it was "Katy bar the door." The Vikings began to go to the boards and this was the turning point in the fray.

The Blue and Gold upped the count to 62-41 at the conclusion of the third canto and were home free in the final period.

It was the rebounding efforts of the Vikings that turned the game into a rout as they pulled 62 misses from the boards while Fredericktown managed to snare 32 misplaced shots. Jeff Sheets was the man for Teays Valley as he hit the boards for 17 rebounds to lead both teams in this department.

Randy Nungester came up with a hot hand for the Vikings hitting six of eight shots from the field to add 12 points to the Blue and Gold total. Sheets added 12, Don Neff had seven, John Glick five, Jeff Helsner and Joe Lombardo had four apiece, Jack Brinker two and David Dean and one to complete the Vikings scoring.

Teays Valley hit 30 of 39 from the floor and converted 28 of 37 from the free throw line.

Fredericktown had a cold night hitting 19 of 61 from the floor and 14 of 33 from the foul line.

Frank Robinson Inks Pact With Orioles For $130,000

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer
Frank Robinson might be traded before his playing career ends and he might become a major league manager, something no black has ever done.

But for the time being he's back at the same old stand—for $130,000.

The 35-year-old slugging outfielder, the subject of persistent trade rumors and a Puerto Rican Winter League manager who wants to do the same thing in the majors, signed a contract with the Baltimore Orioles Friday for a $5,000 raise.

Meanwhile, Manager Gil Hodges of the New York Mets worried about his hitters going color blind and Manager Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals was set to experiment on making Lou Brock a better thief.

Hodges said he will protest a new rule allowing players to wear gloves of non-traditional colors such as red or blue if the rule includes pitchers. He said this would allow a pitcher to change to a differently colored glove each inning and would add to their deception.

Schoendienst said he will try newly acquired left-handed hitting Matty Alou in the No. 2 batting position behind Brock, a base-stealing star, because with a left-hander at the plate it makes it tougher for a catcher to throw out a runner.

Two other big-money signings were announced Friday—right-handed Jim Perry, the 1970 Cy Young Award winner as the American League's best pitcher, by the Minnesota Twins for a reported $85,000, and New York Yankees left-hander Fritz Peterson for an estimated $57,000.

Outfielder-infielder Danny Carter also signed with the Yankees, for a reported $42,000.

Other signings, for unannounced or estimated figures, were infielder-outfielder Bob Bailey, with Montreal; relief pitcher Phil Regan, with the Chicago Cubs; second baseman Cookie Rojas, with Kansas City, and infielder Tim Cullen and outfielder Ed Stroud, with Washington.

Frank Shorter Wins, But No New Mark

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Shorter won the battle but lost the war.

The former Yale distance runner captured the three-mile run at the 83rd annual AAU indoor track and field championships Friday night but missed out on the world record by .8 of a second when he faltered in the stretch.

THE Vikings committed 15 turnovers in the contest while Fredericktown misplayed the ball eight times.

Teays Valley is now 11-8 for the season and will meet Buckeye Valley (14-4) 9:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Coliseum.

Westfall Bumped From Tourney Trail

A cold first quarter for Westfall and a solid clutch performance by Madison South in the fourth quarter added up to an 80-74 defeat for the Mustangs in sectional tournament play at Lancaster Friday.

The Westfall cagers fired a dozen shots at the bucket during the first seven minutes of the initial quarter, none of them going through the hoop.

Bruce Beatty finally broke the ice with exactly 1:02 showing on the clock. Four foul shots prior to that bucket and another field goal by Larry Kempton at the buzzer accounted for the eight points the Mustangs had on the board at the end of the first quarter.

It was a different story for the Madison South Lions. They zipped the first four shots they took from the field through the nets and jumped out to an 11-0 lead. The biggest margin separating the two teams in the first quarter was 13 points, 6-3. At the end of the first quarter, the Lions had 18 points on the score boards.

THE Mustangs' man-to-man press began to have a telling effect in the second quarter and with about two minutes to go to halftime Beatty tied the score at 27-27 with a pair of charity tosses.

By halftime, the Lions led 33-31. And the rest of the game was nip and tuck. Never more than four points separated the two teams. The lead changed hands 16 times in the final two quarters and the score was tied on three different occasions, the last at 74-74 with 1:16 to play.

The last minute and a half belonged to Madison South. With 1:17 to go, Steve Valley put the Lions ahead with a pair of free throws. With 42 seconds on the clock Jon Whitaker

Bucks Trip Cincy Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Milwaukee Bucks, with one title under their belt, are shooting for another as the end of the season approaches—and that one would be two records.

The Bucks, already assured of being the year's winningest team in the National Basketball Association, must try to avoid dropping more than one of their remaining dozen contests to set the mark for the fewest setbacks.

They careened to their 14th victory in a row and their 59th in 70 games Friday night, pounding Cincinnati 135-111. In other NBA action Baltimore ripped Portland 114-97, Boston clipped Atlanta 136-129 in overtime, Phoenix flipped Philadelphia 108-94, Detroit nipped Buffalo 122-122 in overtime and Los Angeles zipped Seattle 145-121.

In the lone American Basketball Association game, Denver blasted Texas 142-120.

By averting defeat the rest of the way—or even taking one game on the chin—Milwaukee would crack the mark of 13 setbacks set by Philadelphia in the 1966-67 season.

And by doing so the Bucks would automatically break another record the 76ers recorded that season—68 triumphs, the most in the league's history.

Milwaukee had the game all but locked up after just one period against the Royals, hitting 17 of 27 first-period shots for a 43-29 lead. The Bucks led by 19 at the half and opened it to 33 by the end of three quarters.

pitched in an off-balance shot from about 15 feet out. And with five seconds to go, Dennis Howsmen made a pair of charity tosses to ice the win.

Jerry Williams was the leading scorer for Westfall with 25 points. Bruce Beatty tallied 18, Larry Kempton 16, Randy Alkire eight, John Valone five and Tom Musselman two.

Westfall made 24 of 72 shots from the field, a 33 per cent average.

For Madison South, Whitaker notched 30 points. Rounding out a balanced effort, Bob Dorn tallied 13, Vallery and Bob Daniels scored 10 each, Howsmen tallied nine and Norman Miller added eight.

THE Lions sank 30 of 77 shots, a 39 per cent average. Westfall pulled down 31 missed shots while Madison South picked 42 missed shots off the boards. Howsmen was the leading rebounder in the game with 21. Williams led the Mustangs with 10 rebounds. Westfall had 21 turnovers and Madison South had 16.

The Mustangs ended the season with a 6-12 record. Madison South now meets Fisher Catholic 8:30 p.m. Tuesday. Fisher was a 70-53 winner over St. Charles last night.

Capital, Wittenberg Win OC Cage Tourney Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Capital clashes with Wittenberg, Denison meets Otterbein, Oberlin goes against Baldwin-Wallace and Hiram faces Mount Union tonight in the second round games of the Ohio Conference Basketball tournament.

Capital whipped Muskingum 86-44. Wittenberg downed Ohio Wesleyan 82-70 and Denison defeated Marietta 98-92 in the tourney's southern division play at Denison Friday night. Otterbein drew a first roundbye.

Oberlin edged Kenyon 72-70 and Hiram thumped Heidelberg 76-68 in northern division action at Baldwin-Wallace, while byedrawing Mount Union was idle.

Capital shot 60 per cent from the field in the first half in taking a quick lead over Muskingum. The Crusaders were paced by Bob Arnold with 20 points.

Wittenberg, paced by Larry Baker with 33 points, caught fire in the second half to expand a three-point intermission lead.

Billie Jean King Wins Quarter-Final

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — Billie Jean King, the nation's foremost women's tennis player, figures she has regained her game after a slight slump in the last couple of tournaments on the $100,000 Virginia Slims Circuit.

"I haven't been happy with my game the last 2½ weeks, but I think I'm bringing it back now," the 27-year-old Californian said Friday night after whipping Australia's Judy Tenger Dalton 6-0, 6-2 in a quarter-final of the $12,500 National Women's Indoor Championships.

Knece, Beatty Selected To SVC All-Star Cage Team

BRUCE BEATTY

MARK KNECE

Mark Knece of Logan Elm and Bruce Beatty of Westfall have been named to the Scioto Valley Conference all-star basketball squad.

Knece, a senior, is a repeater to the team and Beatty, a junior, is making his first appearance in the star studded lineup.

Dave Hammond, a Zane Trace junior, was named player of the year and Zane Trace mentor, Ron Hall, was selected coach of the year. Hammond was the mainstay of the Pioneer squad averaging 20 points and 12 rebounds a game.

out of Ohio Wesleyan's reach. Denison, locked in a tight duel with Marietta, went on a nine-point scoring spree midway through the second half to go ahead for good. Bill Harris led the Big Red with 28 points.

Oberlin came back from a 12-point halftime deficit to trim Kenyon. The Yeomen went into a stall with the score tied 70-70 and 1:53 left to play. Then Earl ingleton swished the winning basket with three seconds on the clock.

Hiram built up a 10-point lead over Heidelberg midway through the second half and coasted to victory.

In the only other Ohio college basketball game Friday night, Bethany defeated Case Tech with a rally in the final four minutes of play.

Haywood Fighting NBA Order

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An interpretation of the National Basketball Association's rules and whether the organization comes under antitrust laws surrounds the long, involved case of Spencer Haywood, a pro basketball star without a team.

During a lengthy hearing Friday in U.S. District Court here, Judge Warren J. Ferguson took under advisement a request by Haywood that the NBA be held in violation of antitrust laws. Then the judge heard testimony from Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA, who said he was once interested in signing Haywood.

Since jumping the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association during a contract dispute and signing with the NBA's Seattle SuperSonics, Haywood has been in hot water. No other NBA team has recognized his status as a player and the SuperSonics have played each game since signing him with the opponent protesting the game.

Cooke said he was interested in getting Haywood himself when he learned of the 21-year-old player's unhappiness at Denver. But Cooke said he contacted the NBA Commissioner, J. Walter Kennedy, and was told signing Haywood would violate NBA rules.

Clark Graebner Wins Tennis Clash

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Clark Graebner, No. 1 seeded American, has beaten Thomas Koch of Brazil to advance to the semi-finals of the singles competition in the Macon International Tennis Tournament.

After whipping Koch 6-2, 3-6 and 7-5, Friday Graebner teamed with Koch in the doubles to beat second-seeded Gerald Battrick and Peter Curtis, both of England, 6-4 and 7-6.

Cougars Defeat Arizona, 95-83

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Quote from the Brigham Young University basketball guide: "Kresimir Cosic ... could do a job for the Cougars."

Quote from Wake Forest's Charlie Davis Friday night: "Bud Martin did a heckuva job on me and made me work for every shot."

Quote from William Shakespeare: "If all the year were playing holidays, to sport would be as tedious as to work."

If all the year were playing holidays like Friday night, hard-working Kresimir Cosic and Charlie Davis could become the pride of basketball's blue-collar set and send everyone else home with a severe case of the working man's blues.

Cosic, BYU's 6-foot-11 sophomore from Zadar, Yugoslavia set a school record by making all 12 field goals—he also canned his four free throws and pulled down 16 rebounds—as the Cougars beat Arizona 95-83.

That kept them in a tie for the Western Athletic Conference lead with Utah, which downed Arizona State 106-97 behind Earl Laster's 28 points. Meanwhile, Davis, Wake Forest's super senior guard from New York City, was having an off night ... compared to Cosic. Al Davis did, despite the tenacious guarding of Clemson's Martin, was sink 10 of 12 floor shots and seven of eight free throws as the hot-shooting Deacons rolled to a 61-54 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over the Tigers.

Before missing his fifth free throw, Davis had made 32 in a row against Clemson in the Tigers' Littlejohn Coliseum. In six games against Clemson over three years Davis has scored 193 points.

Fourth-ranked Pennsylvania was the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action and the unbeaten Quakers ran their record to 23-0 and clinched at least a tie for their second consecutive Ivy League crown with a 96-82 rout of Brown.

Elsewhere among the Ivies, Harvard whipped Columbia 85-66 behind Dale Dover's 23 points and assured itself of its first winning season in the league since 1937-39. The triumph also enabled the Crimson to tie Columbia for second place with three games remaining.

Sophomore flash Brian Taylor poured in 31 points as Princeton crushed Yale 108-64 and James Brown pumped in 22 and Paul Erland 20 in Dartmouth's 99-88 victory over Cornell. Ken Wiens had 34 for the losers.

Temple, one of Fordham's two concourers, gave tournament-hopeful Villanova all it could handle before Hank Siemionkowski's 16-foot turnaround jumper with two seconds left lifted the Wildcats to a 67-65 triumph. The winning basket came after Clarence Smith swined an inbounds pass with 10 seconds to play.

Long Beach State, rated 20th and the only other ranking team in action Friday night, made it 14 straight with a 63-61 conquest of San Diego State.

Also on the West Coast, California trounced Oregon 103-72, Stanford downed Oregon State 97-85 and UC-Santa Barbara turned back San Jose State 77-64.

Rich Yunkus' 32 points and 14 rebounds sparked Georgia Tech over Tampa 99-72.

Vikings Blast Fredericktown In Tourney Action, 88-52

After a tight first half Teays Valley broke the game wide open in the third quarter and crushed Fredericktown, 88-52, in the opening round of the Central District Class AA tournament Friday at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Bob Tucker continued his torrid scoring pace hitting 12 from the field and 12 from the charity stripe for 36 tallies to lead the Vikings' attack.

Turnovers hampered the Blue and Gold offense in the opening period and the quick Fredericktown cagers jumped out to an early lead. Teays Valley fought back and managed to grab a 15-12 margin at the end of the first stanza. They battled on even terms in the second frame and the Vikings were on the long end of a 35-30 count at halftime.

THEN the lads from Teays Valley began to put it all together in the third quarter and from then on it was "Katy bar the door." The Vikings began to go to the boards and this was the turning point in the fray.

The Blue and Gold upped the count to 62-41 at the conclusion of the third canto and were home free in the final period.

It was the rebounding efforts of the Vikings that turned the game into a rout as they pulled 62 misses from the boards while Fredericktown managed to snare 32 misplaced shots. Jeff Sheets was the man for Teays Valley as he hit the boards for 17 rebounds to lead both teams in this department.

Randy Nungester came up with a hot hand for the Vikings hitting six of eight shots from the field to add 12 points to the Blue and Gold total. Sheets added 12, Don Neff had seven, John Glick five, Jeff Heiser and Joe Lombardo had four apiece, Jack Brinker two and David Dean and one to complete the Vikings scoring.

Teays Valley hit 30 of 39 from the floor and converted 23 of 37 from the free throw line.

Fredericktown had a cold night hitting 19 of 61 from the floor and 14 of 33 from the foul line.

THE Vikings committed 15 turnovers in the contest while Fredericktown misplayed the ball eight times.

Teays Valley is now 11-8 for the season and will meet Buckeye Valley (14-4) 9:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Coliseum.

In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY
In loving memory of our daughter, Shavina Lynn Martin, who was dead at birth February 21st, 1971, at Berger Hospital. Graveside services were held Wednesday, February 24th, 1971 at Miller Cemetery. The Rev. James Justice officiated with music by Avonelle Imbler and a song was sung by Shirley Adams. The death was preceded by a son, Franklin Wayne Martin Jr. who was also dead at birth on Dec. 7, 1969. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Martin of Route 4, Circleville, Ohio. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stutler of Route 1, Amanda and Mr. and Mrs. Cyle Martin of 41 McCulloch Avenue, Circleville.

IN MEMORY
In memory of George E. Radau who passed away Feb. 21, 1970.
We cannot send a birthday card, you hand we cannot touch. Today there will be no gifts or cake for the one we loved so much. God saw you getting weary. He did what He thought was best. He put His arms around you, and took you home to rest.
Time speeds on one year has passed, since death's gloom its shadow cast.
Within our homes where all seemed bright, and took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will, his vacant place there's none to fill.
Down here we mourn but not in vain, for up in Heaven we will meet again.

Is our future in the bag?

Some scientists give our planet thirty more years. Then population zero. No mushroom cloud to ring down the curtain. Just pollution. Silent and simple-minded. Like people scattering trash. Paper. Glass. Plastic. Deadly trivia. That's our destiny. Unless we change our ways. Government and industry are spending millions to do away with pollution. But there's one source of pollution they can't control. People. We have to do that job ourselves. Your automobile is a good place to start. Don't throw trash from your car. And above all, don't forget the fundamentals...keep your engine in tune. You'll cut harmful emissions decisively. Change your oil and filter on schedule. Try the new, improved gasolines. Service your car's pollution control device regularly. If you don't have one, install one. All these steps take a little effort. But they must be done. Now. We have a thirty-year deadline.

Is our future in the bag?

Some scientists give our planet thirty more years. Then population zero.

No mushroom cloud to ring down the curtain. Just pollution. Silent and simple-minded. Like people scattering trash. Paper. Glass. Plastic. Deadly trivia.

That's our destiny. Unless we change our ways. Government and industry are spending millions to do away with pollution. But there's one source of pollution they can't control. People. We have to do that job ourselves.

Your automobile is a good place to start. Don't throw trash from your car. And above all, don't forget the fundamentals...keep your engine in tune. You'll cut harmful emissions decisively. Change your oil and filter on schedule. Try the new, improved gas-oilines. Service your car's pollution control device regularly. If you don't have one, install one.

All these steps take a little effort. But they must be done. Now.

We have a thirty-year deadline.

County Property Taxes Analyzed

Total property taxes levied by all governmental units in Pickaway County amounted to $5,147,966 during the 1970 calendar year.

This was an increase of $753,638 over 1969. School tax levies accounted for $4,034,945 or 78 per cent of the total taxes and 86½ per cent of the increase.

Increases were noted in property tax collections on the county level ($65,807), within the townships ($61,943) and school districts ($652,148). Throughout all municipalities in the county a tax decrease was noted of $26,260.

In a study by the Ohio Expenditure Council, Pickaway County was shown to stand at 38th out of Ohio's 88 counties with a per capita property taxes averaging $128. Highest in the state is Cuyahoga County with $241 and lowest in Brown at $68.

County Nurse, Sanitarian Report To Health Board

By BETTY DAWLEY
Herald Staff Writer

County board of health members in monthly session Friday afternoon heard reports and reviewed the February work load of staff members Mrs. Helen Pickens, county nurse, and R. T. Blaney, county sanitarian.

Concerning vision testing in the county schools, Mrs. Pickens reported the department is now going into high schools where testing has been limited to senior students.

Trained mothers have screened 738 students in Scioto, Monroe and Westfall schools. One hundred seventy were rescreened by the nurse and 78 referred to doctors.

Mrs. Pickens emphasized to the health board her appreciation to the Lion's Club for cooperation in obtaining glasses for children of families financially unable to afford them.

THERE was one immunization follow-up in the schools and a student referred to the Guidance Center, according to the nurse.

Home visits concerned a TB case, five visits to crippled children, visits to another five children with impetigo, and one with pink eye.

Two venereal disease cases were reported to the health office. One case was interviewed for contacts and both patients treated by a family physician. One local hepatitis case was reported to the Health Department by Childrens Hospital, Columbus. Seven hepatitis contacts were treated at the Health Department under the direction of Health Commissioner Dr. Frank Moore.

At the recommendation and request of Dr. Moore, the board approved purchase of gamma globulin in order that the department maintain an adequate supply at all times.

In addition to necessary referrals made in matters of health during the month, the nurse assisted in clinics at Berger Hospital, attended three meetings relative to health and participated as a judge at Westfall's Science Fair.

Sanitarian Blaney reported meetings with Era trailer court owner, Everett Taynor, and a sewage installer concerning plans for a sewage system at the trailer court. Board President Richard L. Christensen advised Blaney that definite plans and dates for installation and operation of the sewage system should be given to the board by the next meeting.

CHRISTENSEN further expressed concern of all problems brought before the board requiring action. Resolutions in some cases has been delayed more than a year, according to Christensen, with no accomplishments.

Effective changes are expected. In routine inspection of the county's sanitary landfill,

Blaney reported as of the most recent inspection tour conducted Feb. 25, the operation was in violation in five categories. Ground thawing broke down a road being built at the fill in an area being converted to a trench method. The landfill operator, William Barthelmas, is reportedly hauling gravel to rebuild the road.

Recommendation made by the sanitarian for satisfactory operation at the fill was to restrict the dumping area, too much of the face is exposed. Dumping from the top makes it impossible to properly compact and spread and the amount of face exposed cannot be properly covered in one day as required.

The landfill is operated under license issued by the county health board. Non-compliance to regulations is cause for license revocation.

Health Board members were reminded of the annual Advisory Council meeting 2 p.m. Monday. The council, made up of a chairman of each township and the Mayor of each village, directs and supports the county health board.

Present at the Friday meeting were Health Commissioner Dr. Frank R. Moore, Board President R. L. Christensen, board members Mrs. William Hildenbrand and Dr. Paul E. Fenstermaker with staff members, Nurse Helen Pickens, Effie Davis, RN, R. T. Blaney and Lorene Miller, secretary.

4 Persons Are Killed In Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The 54-hour weekend traffic death count got off to a grim beginning Friday with four fatalities reported.

The state's streets and highways claimed nine lives over the previous weekend period.

A head-on collision of two cars in Toledo accounted for the evening's first two victims, followed by a one-car accident in Trumbull County and the death of a pedestrian in Columbus.

The dead:

FRIDAY NIGHT
COLUMBUS—Walter J. Martin, 53, of Columbus, when struck by a car as he walked along a city street.

TOLEDO — Mark S. Athanas, 26, and Daniel Olivera, 26, both of Toledo, when their cars collided in the downtown area.

WARREN—Marvin E. Liddel, 30, of Cleveland, when his car left the road and plunged into a creek just off Ohio 87 in northern Trumbull County.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The following is the official weather summary for Ohio from the National Weather Service:

A strong cold front moved rapidly eastward across the state early this morning accompanied by gusty winds and a brief period of moderate to heavy rain. Temperatures began to fall immediately after the frontal passage and are expected to continue to drop until readings are generally in the 30s over the state this afternoon.

As the intense low pressure system moves northeastward during the next 24 hours, southwest to westerly winds of 20 to 30 miles per hour will prevail over the state.

Some snow flurries will develop mainly over northern sections of the state as colder air moves in. The brief periods of snow flurries will continue over northern Ohio tonight and will be confined to the northeast portion tomorrow.

Low temperatures tonight will range from the mid 20s to the lower 30s, while the highs Sunday will generally be in the 30s over all of Ohio. Monday's outlook shows fair skies and continued cold.

FORECASTS
OHIO — Partly cloudy, windy and colder today, tonight and Sunday with chance of snow flurries north this afternoon and tonight and in northeast portion Sunday. High temperatures today from near 40 northwest to the mid 40s southeast. Lows tonight from the mid 20s to the lower 30s and the highs Sunday in the 30s.

NORTHWEST INLAND AND WEST LAKE SHORE — Variable cloudiness and colder with chance of snow flurries this afternoon and tonight. Temperatures falling into the 30s today and to the middle 20s tonight. Partly cloudy and cold Sunday, high in the lower 30s.

WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST AND SOUTHEAST —Partly cloudy and colder today, tonight and Sunday. High temperatures today in the low to mid 40s, the lows tonight from the mid 20s to the lower 30s and the highs Sunday in the mid to upper 30s.

War Foes Hike Criticism Of Nixon Indochina Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charging the nation faces the prospect of endless war, Democrats have heightened attacks on President Nixon's Indochina policies, despite administration insistence a strict timetable would lessen the chance of peace.

W. Averell Harriman, a former ambassador to the Paris peace talks, said Friday that, although the President "claims credit for winding down the war, in fact it has been expanded into Cambodia and Laos."

Speaking as chairman of the Democratic Policy Council's Committee on International Affairs, Harriman said: "Since the President has indicated he does not expect a negotiated solution, the administration's policies offer the prospect of an endless war."

Harriman, joined by former Defense Department official Paul C. Warnke, called on Nixon to announce a total withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia by the end of the year.

A policy of complete withdrawal this year will obtain the speedy release of our men who are prisoners of war," said a statement issued under auspices of the Democratic National Committee.

Nixon's national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, replied that a fixed date for U.S. withdrawal would remove any incentive for Hanoi to negotiate a peace.

Cincy Mayor To Retire?

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Mayor Eugene Ruehlmann, who has served in the position the last four years, will not be a candidate for re-election to City Council this fall, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported today.

The Enquirer said that Ruehlmann will announce his decision within the next 10 days and also clarify whether he will resign before the end of the term.

Ruehlmann has been on City Council for the last 12 years and he is in his second term as mayor. In the Queen City, the mayor is chosen by the majority in council. He is not directly elected as mayor.

If Ruehlmann does bow out, Republicans would be in danger of losing their 5-4 majority in City Council.

In the 1969 councilmanic election, Ruehlmann ran fourth with 61,258 votes but it was decided that he continue as mayor.

40 Columbus Students Ousted After Outbreak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 40 Central High School students have been dismissed indefinitely for taking part in disruptions that forced early dismissal of classes Friday.

Principal Calvin Parks said the students and their parents will be called in to meet with him next week.

He said the suspended students were identified by eyewitnesses and photographs taken in the school during the disorders.

No one was hurt and only minor damage was caused in the disturbances, which reportedly began when about 150 blacks began milling through the halls and disturbing others in classes.

Religious Order Eyes Hospital

CINCINNATI (AP) — A religious order which operates hospitals in Dayton, Cincinnati and Covington, Ky., is considering the possibility of taking over Dunham Hospital.

Sister Jean Link administrator of 83-year-old St. Francis Hospital operated by the Franciscan Sisters of the Poor, said Friday that Dunham could fit into long-range plans of St. Francis.

Dunham, which has served as Hamilton County's tuberculosis facility, is scheduled to be closed within a year because of financial reasons and a lack of patients.

Sister Jean said that the sprawling ground of Dunham would lend itself to development of a modern hospital site.

Financier Sues Bank

CINCINNATI (AP) — The First National Bank of Cincinnati and seven persons have been charged in a $6,445,526 suit with unlawfully directing affairs of the Ohio Valley Financial Corp. and conspiring against its former president.

Hilary Evers Jr., the former president, filed the suit in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Friday.

Besides the bank, named defendants were three of its officers—president William Liggett, and John Bullock and Rolf Brookes—and four other persons.

Evers asked for a permanent injunction to enjoin the defendants from alleged unlawful control over the finance corporation, and requested $2,148,509 in compensatory damages and $4,29,071 in punitive damages for himself.

In October of 1969, Evers said that he pledged 24,000 shares of Ohio Valley stock as collateral on a $125,000 promissory note to First National. In March, he said the note was paid and that the bank refused to turn over the stock.

Cincinnati Safety Chief Studies Cop's Suspension

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Safety Director Henry Sandman is considering the case of a police officer suspended following accusations that he fired a shotgun at an adult book store.

Sandman held a hearing Friday in which Detective Sgt. Paul Streicher invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether he fired shots that shattered windows at Seventh Street News on Feb. 14.

On Wednesday, Police Chief Carl Goodwin suspended Streicher pending the hearing Friday. Sandman will recommend to City Manager Richard Krabach whether to continue Streicher's suspension, or take some other action, or reinstate him.

Streicher, head of the police department's Check, Document and Fugitive Squad, is charged with failure of good behavior. He was on duty when the incident occurred but no one was in the store in the downtown section at the time.

Ashville Cashier Announces Retirement

Mrs. Valerie Knoch has retired as cashier of the Ashville Bank where she had been employed for the past 28 years.

Mrs. Koch cited ill health during the past year as the reason for her retirement.

She and her husband Raymond live at Route 3, Circleville.

In the Senate, meanwhile, acting Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said he doubts Americans would support an invasion of North Vietnam by South Vietnamese troops.

"There would be a great deal" of support in the Senate for a Democratic resolution to bar American fliers from aiding such a move, the West Virginia senator added.

The resolution by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and 18 other Democrats was offered as South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was quoted in Saigon as saying a thrust to the north is not long away. His press secretary said Thieu was misquoted.

The 19-member Democratic group also called for total withdrawal from Vietnam within two years, a deadline Republican leader Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said was motivated by "sheer politics."

"They are trying to second-guess the President on when the final withdrawal will come," the Pennsylvanian said.

S.C. Air Crash Fatal To Eight

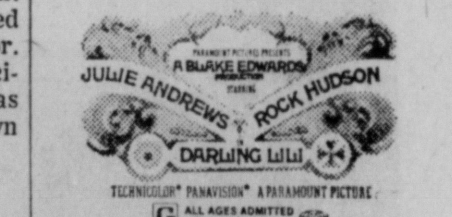

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — The second multiple death plane crash at Columbia Metropolitan Airport this month has claimed the lives of eight persons.

The eight were killed Friday when a twin-engine private plane crashed in a light drizzle while making a second attempt to land. Another private plane crashed short of a runway Feb. 3 and all five aboard perished.

The victims of Friday's crash included David M. Adams of Youngstown, Ohio; Marie Kun, Vivian Babbs, John Beronski, Richard Dooley and Alfred Bandjough and his wife Lynn, all of the Cleveland, Ohio area. The eighth victim was identified as Leslie Holsottle of Pennsylvania, whose hometown was not immediately determined.

SET A CHILD FREE — That is the theme of the winning entries in the Pickaway County Easter Seal Poster Contest. The top three awards were presented to Thorndike Barnhart, second; Kelly Spence, third and Lois Ann Burris, first. They were the top three selections made from a field of 136 posters submitted in all city and county sixth grade classes. The posters will be on display at Ward's Market on West Main beginning Mar. 1.

Students Boost Society Campaign

Entries in the annual Pickaway County Easter Seal Poster Contest were judged recently and the list of winners announced today by Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood.

First place in the 1971 contest went to Lois Ann Burris, a sixth grade student at Pickaway School. Another Pickaway student, Thorndike Barnhart, took second place honors and Kelly Spence, Nicholas Drive Elementary, earned the third prize ribbon.

As part of its campaign to aid crippled children, the Easter Seal Society annually sponsors a poster contest for sixth graders throughout the city and county. Prizes of $10, $8 and $5 are presented to the top three entries in the competition.

Honorable mention went to Vicky Hunt, Salt Creek School; Shellie Marquart, Washington; Robin Ervin, Walnut; Kimberly Tomlinson, High Street Elementary; Barbara Mace, Williamsport and Tove Agin, High Street.

A total of 136 posters were entered. All will be displayed by the Society during their Easter Seal Campaign.

Mrs. Betty Griffith, well known local artist, was contest judge. Her selections were based on how well the posters might encourage contributions to Easter Seals.

Winning posters will be on display in the window of Ward's Cardinal Market on West Main St. during the campaign, Mar. 1 to Apr. 11.

Irish . . .

The latest violence was regarded by authorities as an IRA reprisal for the arrest of 28 Catholic women for demonstrating and fighting with police Friday outside a court. Inside four men were being tried of charges of breaching the peace during a recent IRA funeral.

One of the first retaliatory acts was against a police station off the Crumlin Road. Bombers fixed gelignite to the door and then knocked. The bomb went off before police reached the door, blowing in windows 100 yards away and wrecking a police car. One officer was slightly hurt.

County Nurse, Sanitarian Report To Health Board

By BETTY DAWLEY
Herald Staff Writer

County board of health members in monthly session Friday afternoon heard reports and reviewed the February work load of staff members Mrs. Helen Pickens, county nurse, and R. T. Blaney, county sanitarian.

Concerning vision testing in the county schools, Mrs. Pickens reported the department is now going into high schools where testing has been limited to senior students.

Trained mothers have screened 738 students in Scioto, Monroe and Westfall schools. One hundred seventy were rescreened by the nurse and 78 referred to doctors.

Mrs. Pickens emphasized to the health board her appreciation to the Lion's Club for cooperation in obtaining glasses for children of families financially unable to afford them.

THERE was one immunization follow-up in the schools and a student referred to the Guidance Center, according to the nurse.

Home visits concerned a TB case, five visits to crippled children, visits to another five children with impetigo, and one with pink eye.

Two venereal disease cases were reported to the health office. One case was interviewed for contacts and both patients treated by a family physician. One local hepatitis case was reported to the Health Department by Childrens Hospital, Columbus. Seven hepatitis contacts were treated at the Health Department under the direction of Health Commissioner Dr. Frank Moore.

At the recommendation and request of Dr. Moore, the board approved purchase of gamma globulin in order that the department maintain an adequate supply at all times.

In addition to necessary referrals made in matters of health during the month, the nurse assisted in clinics at Berger Hospital, attended three meetings relative to health and participated as a judge at Westfall's Science Fair.

Sanitarian Blaney reported meetings with Era trailer court owner, Everett Taylor, and a sewage installer concerning plans for a sewage system at the trailer court. Board President Richard L. Christensen advised Blaney that definite plans and dates for installation and operation of the sewage system should be given to the board by the next meeting.

CHRISTENSEN further expressed concern of all problems brought before the board requiring action. Resolutions in some cases have been delayed more than a year, according to Christensen, with no accomplishments.

Effective changes are expected.

In routine inspection of the county's sanitary landfill,

Blaney reported as of the most recent inspection tour conducted Feb. 25, the operation was in violation in five categories. Ground thawing broke down a road being built at the fill in an area being converted to a trench method. The landfill operator, William Barthelmas, is reportedly hauling gravel to rebuild the road.

Recommendation made by the sanitarian for satisfactory operation at the fill was to restrict the dumping area, too much of the face is exposed. Dumping from the top makes it impossible to properly compact and spread and the amount of face exposed cannot be properly covered in one day as required.

The landfill is operated under license issued by the county health board. Non-compliance to regulations is cause for license revocation.

Health Board members were reminded of the annual Advisory Council meeting 2 p.m. Monday. The council, made up of a chairman of each township and the Mayor of each village, directs and supports the county health board.

Present at the Friday meeting were Health Commissioner Dr. Frank R. Moore, Board President R. L. Christensen, board members Mrs. William Hildenbrand and Dr. Paul E. Fenstermaker with staff members, Nurse Helen Pickens, Effie Davis, RN, R. T. Blaney and Lorene Miller, secretary.

4 Persons Are Killed In Crashes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The 54-hour weekend traffic death count got off to a grim beginning Friday with four fatalities reported.

The state's streets and highways claimed nine lives over the previous weekend period.

A head-on collision of two cars in Toledo accounted for the evening's first two victims, followed by a one-car accident in Trumbull County and the death of a pedestrian in Columbus.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The following is the official weather summary for Ohio from the National Weather Service:

A strong cold front moved rapidly eastward across the state early this morning accompanied by gusty winds and a brief period of moderate to heavy rain. Temperatures began to fall immediately after the frontal passage and are expected to continue to drop until readings are generally in the 30s over the state this afternoon.

As the intense low pressure system moves northeastward during the next 24 hours, southwest to westerly winds of 20 to 30 miles per hour will prevail over the state.

Some snow flurries will develop mainly over northern sections of the state as colder air moves in. The brief periods of snow flurries will continue over northern Ohio tonight and will be confined to the northeast portion tomorrow.

Low temperatures tonight will range from the mid 20s to the lower 30s, while the highs Sunday will generally be in the 30s. Sunday night's low will be in the 30s over all of Ohio. Monday's outlook shows fair skies and continued cold.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Partly cloudy, windy and colder today, tonight and Sunday with chance of snow flurries north this afternoon and tonight and in northeast portion Sunday. High temperatures today from near 40 northwest to the mid 40s southeast. Lows tonight from the mid 20s to the lower 30s and the highs Sunday in the 30s.

NORTHWEST INLAND AND WEST LAKE SHORE — Variable cloudiness and colder with chance of snow flurries this afternoon and tonight. Temperatures falling into the 30s today and to the middle 20s tonight. Partly cloudy and cold Sunday, high in the lower 30s.

WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL, SOUTHWEST AND SOUTHEAST — Partly cloudy and colder today, tonight and Sunday. High temperatures today in the low to mid 40s, the lows tonight from the mid 20s to the lower 30s and the highs Sunday in the mid to upper 30s.

War Foes Hike Criticism Of Nixon Indochina Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charging the nation faces the prospect of endless war, Democrats have heightened attacks on President Nixon's Indochina policies, despite administration insistence a strict timetable would lessen the chance of peace.

W. Averell Harriman, a former ambassador to the Paris peace talks, said Friday that, although the President "claims credit for winding down the war, in fact it has been expanded into Cambodia and Laos."

Speaking as chairman of the Democratic Policy Council's Committee on International Affairs, Harriman said: "Since the President has indicated he does not expect a negotiated solution, the administration's policies offer the prospect of an endless war."

Harriman, joined by former Defense Department official Paul C. Warnke, called on Nixon to announce a total withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia by the end of the year.

A policy of complete withdrawal this year will obtain the speedy release of our men who are prisoners of war," said a statement issued under auspices of the Democratic National Committee.

Cincy Mayor To Retire?

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Mayor Eugene Ruehlmann, who has served in the position the last four years, will not be a candidate for re-election to City Council this fall, the Cincinnati Enquirer reported today.

The Enquirer said that Ruehlmann will announce his decision within the next 10 days and also clarify whether he will resign before the end of the term.

Ruehlmann has been on City Council for the last 12 years and he is in his second term as mayor. In the Queen City, the mayor is chosen by the majority in council. He is not directly elected as mayor.

If Ruehlmann does bow out, Republicans would be in danger of losing their 5-4 majority in City Council.

In the 1969 councilmanic election, Ruehlmann ran fourth with 61,258 votes but it was decided that he continue as mayor.

40 Columbus Students Ousted After Outbreak

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 40 Central High School students have been dismissed indefinitely for taking part in disruptions that forced early dismissal of classes Friday.

Principal Calvin Parks said the students and their parents will be called in to meet with him next week.

He said the suspended students were identified by eyewitnesses and photographs taken in the school during the disorders.

No one was hurt and only minor damage was caused in the disturbances, which reportedly began when about 150 blacks began milling through the halls and disturbing others in classes.

Religious Order Eyes Hospital

CINCINNATI (AP) — A religious order which operates hospitals in Dayton, Cincinnati and Covington, Ky., is considering the possibility of taking over Dunham Hospital.

Sister Jean Link administrator of 83-year-old St. Francis Hospital operated by the Franciscan Sisters of the Poor, said Friday that Dunham could fit into long-range plans of St. Francis.

Dunham, which has served as Hamilton County's tuberculosis facility, is scheduled to be closed within a year because of financial reasons and a lack of patients.

Sister Jean said that the sprawling ground of Dunham would lend itself to development of a modern hospital site.

viser, Henry A. Kissinger, replied that a fixed date for U.S. withdrawal would remove any incentive for Hanoi to negotiate a peace.

Financier Sues Bank

CINCINNATI (AP) — The First National Bank of Cincinnati and seven persons have been charged in a $6,445,526 suit with unlawfully directing affairs of the Ohio Valley Financial Corp. and conspiring against its former president.

Hilary Evers Jr., the former president, filed the suit in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Friday.

Besides the bank, named defendants were three of its officers—president William Liggett, and John Bullock and Rolf Brookes—and four other persons.

Evers asked for a permanent injunction to enjoin the defendants from alleged unlawful control over the finance corporation, and requested $2,145,509 in compensatory damages and $4,29,071 in punitive damages for himself.

In October of 1969, Evers said that he pledged 24,000 shares of Ohio Valley stock as collateral on a $25,000 promissory note to First National. In March, he said the note was paid and that the bank refused to turn over the stock.

Cincinnati Safety Chief Studies Cop's Suspension

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Safety Director Henry Sandman is considering the case of a police officer suspended following accusations that he fired a shotgun at an adult book store.

Sandman held a hearing Friday in which Detective Sgt. Paul Streicher invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether he fired shots that shattered windows at Seventh Street News on Feb. 14.

On Wednesday, Police Chief Carl Goodwin suspended Streicher pending the hearing Friday. Sandman will recommend to City Manager Richard Krabach whether to continue Streicher's suspension, or take some other action, or reinstate him.

Streicher, head of the police department's Check, Document and Fugitive Squad, is charged with failure of good behavior. He was on duty when the incident occurred but no one was in the store in the downtown section at the time.

Ashville Cashier Announces Retirement

Mrs. Valerie Knoch has retired as cashier of the Ashville Bank where she had been employed for the past 28 years.

Mrs. Koch cited ill health during the past year as the reason for her retirement. She and her husband Raymond live at Route 3, Circleville.

In the Senate, meanwhile, acting Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said he doubts Americans would support an invasion of North Vietnam by South Vietnamese troops.

"There would be a great deal" of support in the Senate for a Democratic resolution to bar American fliers from aiding such a move, the West Virginia senator added.

The resolution by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and 18 other Democrats was offered as South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was quoted in Saigon as saying a thrust to the north is not long away. His press secretary said Thieu was misquoted.

The 19-member Democratic group also called for total withdrawal from Vietnam within two years, a deadline Republican leader Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said was motivated by "sheer politics."

"They are trying to second-guess the President on when the final withdrawal will come," the Pennsylvanian said.

S.C. Air Crash Fatal To Eight

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP) — The second multiple death plane crash at Columbia Metropolitan Airport this month has claimed the lives of eight persons.

The eight were killed Friday when a twin-engine private plane crashed in a light drizzle while making a second attempt to land. Another private plane crashed short of a runway Feb. 3 and all five aboard perished.

The victims of Friday's crash included David M. Adams of Youngstown, Ohio; Marie Kun, Vivian Babbs, John Beronski, Richard Dooley and Alfred Dandjough and his wife Lynn, all of the Cleveland, Ohio area. The eighth victim was identified as Leslie Holstette of Pennsylvania, whose hometown was not immediately determined.
